WORLD'S RECORD CHECK IS DRAWN.

Paper for Over Seventy Millions Passes Through New York Bank.

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)
NEW YORK, April 4.—A check for slightly more than $70,703,000, said to be the largest ever drawn, passed through the New York Clearinghouse today.
It was made by J. P. Morgan & Co., on a local bank, to the order of the Canadian government, in payment of $75,000-000 par value 5 per cent. bonds recently purchased by a syndicate of bankers.

the results that Paris says the Germans were "forced to retreat in disorder" to the protection of the Bochauffour. Even here the guns searched them out and inflicted still further losses.

IRON WALL.
West of the Meuse the same iron wall of French resistance met an attack on the village of Haucourt. It completely failed, and the Germans were thrown back on their old lines.
Along the Avocourt-Malancourt sector, also, although there was an intense bombardment, no attempt at an advance was made.

Although the German attacks have been unparalleled in their ferocity, still greater ones are looked for. But the French are prepared for them and there is the greatest confidence in the outcome. It is to anticipate them that Gen. Petain has sought to strengthen his position by the recapture of some of the ground he had yielded. As long as the German attacks had been isolated, first in one place, then in another, he had been content to yield them, exacting in return the highest price in blood.
Now that the action about the fortress is becoming general, as though preparatory to a grand assault, such tactics must give way to measures of greater prudence. And Gen. Petain is taking no chances on German success. Already the sustained intensity of the French defense has aroused the admiration, though at the same time it is taken as the measure of German desperacy and the necessity of some kind of a victory to them.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.
An attempt by the German press farther south against the French in the region of Douaumont, northeast of Verdun, has met with repulse and considerable losses. In the same sector north of the Callette wood the French have continued their progress in driving back the Teutons. The German attack south of Douaumont was launched against the French first line of defense, but the French raked
the advancing Teutons with their curtain of fire, machine guns and infantry fire, forcing them to retreat in disorder northwest toward the Chauffour wood. On the Russian front the artillery activity of the Russians in the lake region southeast of Dvinsk has increased, but in general no important changes in the positions of the Russians and Germans have taken place. The Austrians have occupied the border bridge between Loblatia and Monte Fumo, which was held by the Italians. Artillery duels are still in progress on the Dobrodo sector of the Col di Lana and in the Giudica-ria Alps.

Direct advices from Gen. Pershing's command are that the American positive expedition is now but fifteen miles behind the Villa outposts. The general in command is said to believe that Villa has been caught in a trap and cannot get away. A Diaz plot is alleged to have been unearthed at Jureux. The second engagement of Americans with Mexican bandits is reported. Americans under Col. Brown have defeated an equal number of bandits.

Americans Under Col. Brown

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
SAN ANTONIO, April 4.—The seventh Cavalry under Col. George A.
Dodd, has smashed Villa's force of bandits and Yaqui Indians and Villa himself is reported to be badly wounded and unable to lead the remnants of his command.
Last night he was reported less than fifteen miles from the camp where this is written. The force left last night not more than 300 men at the outside and their annihilation or capture seems inevitable.
Col. Dodd's recuperating troops blocked Villa's way to the south at Guerrero and Maj. Howe's troops, moving down the valley, closed that avenue of escape. Maj. Tompkins on the west and Maj. Brown with the Tenth Cavalry scouting to the east of Bachimba. The development was so apparent that Pershing cautioned us not to be too optimistic.
"It may require weeks, perhaps months, yet," he said, "it is like trying to catch a rat in a corn field."
When the seventh, their horses drooping, left, their faces covered with dust as they made them resemble squirrels of clay, rode into Guerrero on Wednesday morning, the Villa forces, their chiefs ahead of them in his buggy, made no semblance of standing for a fight, but sprang to their heels and with a few scattering shots, and leaving behind them many Carranzista prisoners they had taken, and who, Col. Dodd reported, were being held for ransom. The outlets of the town the Villistas overtook their leader, and as we later learned from Mexicans, lifted him from his back and carried him to the best horse available. Half tied to the saddle and propped by men at either side, he was able, bandaged and bleeding, to make his way up the valley for about twenty-five miles to the point where the flying squadron of the Eleventh hoped to meet the bandits in a conclusive engagement.

SECOND ENGAGEMENT.
(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
SAN ANTONIO (Chihuahua)
April 4 (via aeroplane to Colonia Dublan, Tex., April 4).—Two hundred American cavalrymen under Col. W. C. Brown, Tenth Cavalry, defeated an equal force of Villistas in the second engagement of the campaign at Aguascalientes, thirty miles north of Guerrero, on April 3. This battle, which was the last of the campaign, was a decisive victory for the Americans. The consensus of opinion was that lessons learned in the European war had been applied to the development of American army aeronautics.

As military attaché of the American Embassy at London, army aviators
Col. Squier has had exceptional opportunity to study the latest methods of aerial warfare and place this knowledge will be used to build up the flying service in this country.

Col. Glasford, when told of Col.
Squier's appointment, said he would
be glad to return to his duties as chief of the army aviation school here, Department at San Francisco and place himself at the disposal of the North Island school in the hands of a man who has a considerably broader knowledge of aeronautics.

Four of the foremost aviators in the army will act as a board of advisers to the chief of the school to bring the aviation service to a higher state of efficiency, according to word received from Washington today. They are Capt. Virginia Clark, army aerona-utical engineer; Lieut. Thomas De W. Milling, considered the foremost military flyer; Lieut. Eyrone
J. Jones, famous as a loop-the-loop aviator, and Lieut. Frank Lahm, pioneer army aviator and balloonist.

TO APPLY WAR LESSONS.
SAN DIEGO, April 4.—The appointment of Lieut. Col. George O. Squier of the Signal Corps to become commandant of the army aviation school here, following closely on the heels of the arrival of Col. William Glasford, who came here to supersede Capt. Arthur
S. Cowan as head of the institution, caused much speculation in military circles today. The consensus of opinion was that lessons learned in the European war had been applied to the development of American army aeronautics.

Col. Glasford, when told of Col.
Squier's appointment, said he would
be glad to return to his duties as chief

TO PURCHASE PAPER

MEXICO CITY, April 4.—Gen. Carranza published today a decree authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase paper money of the present issue to the value of $1,000-000 gold Mexican. The paper money is to be destroyed.

The government reiterates its determination not to repudiate the paper issue and declares it will raise the exchange rate to 100 paper for $1 Mexican gold. The effort of the government are meeting with success.
Many merchants have voluntarily lowered prices and the exchange rate on
New York is improving hourly.

PARIS, April 4.—A powerful German attack against the first lines of the French south of Douaumont was repulsed today and the Germans were driven back in the direction of Chauffour wood, which lies to the northwest. The French artillery concentrated their fire on the retreating Germans, who, according to the official statement issued by the French War Office, tonight, suffered considerable loss.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, April 4.—Chicago voters elected thirty-five Aldermen and a municipal judge today. The early returns indicated that twenty-three Democrats and twelve Republicans were successful. Of the twelve Republicans elected four were indorsed by Mayor Thompson. The new alignment of the City Council will give the "wets" an increased majority. In the old Council the liquor forces had a majority of thirty-six votes. This was increased by four as the result of today's election.
The election was bitterly fought.
Opponents of Mayor Thompson were out to do anything in their power to beat any candidate who had the Mayor's indorsement. In several wards where the Republican candidate had the indorsement of the Mayor his opponents within his own party worked for the Democratic candidate.
In several cases the Republican candidate made a special appeal to the women voters, but, although the women vote was as heavy as in any previous election, they voted with the men. The women made no difference in the results, for, as a rule, they voted with the men folk.

SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS FOR the political student are revealed by the election results. The Republican vote shows a falling off of 10 per cent. as compared with a year ago. At that time Thompson, Republican candidate for Mayor, received 53,518 votes. Today the Republican candidate for Alderman received a total of only 18,955 votes, showing a loss of 208,
563 votes. The Democrats polled 29, 102 more votes than the Republicans
but the Democratic vote showed a loss
over the figures of last year of 41,923, or 18 per cent. The most amazing figure of all is contained in an analysis of the Socialist vote, which shows a gain of 55 per cent. over a year ago.
The Socialist vote last year was 54, 432. Today it was 45,778. The Socialists elected one Alderman.

The election was quiet except in the Eighteenth Ward, where numeous fights were reported. One candidate had a gang of slugs riding around the ward in an automobile and when they attacked the workers of the opposition at one polling place, a riot call was turned in.

The race for one position as municipal judge was close, with Leo J.
Doyle, Democrat, the winner over John A. Swanson, Republican.

Miss Ellen Gates Starr, a coworker of Miss Jane Adams at Hull House, Socialist candidate for Alderman in the Nineteenth Ward, was left at the post. She had been her opponent, Edward James Bowler, who is an experienced campaigner. Miss Starr got about one vote out of every ten.

SACHS SUICIDE AN ISSUE.
The suicide of Dr. Theodore Sachs, former superintendent of the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanatorium, was injected as an issue into the election by the anti-administration forces. Dr.
Sachs took poison last Sunday, following his removal by Mayor Thompson.
The Mayor charged that gross irregularities in the administration of the sanatorium had been found at the investigation. The enemies of the Mayor made a great outcry to the effect that Dr. Sachs had been hounded to his death by the Mayor.

Two hundred saloons were bashed from down-state townships today.

The dregs claimed a big victory.
The most important conquests were the cities of Waukegan, where forty-six saloons were driven out; Moline, where fifty-one saloons were voted out; and Mount Pleasant, where twenty saloons were affected.

The wets won a big victory in the city of Bloomington, regaining the opposition to the women, as the men rolled up a large majority in favor of saloons.

The dregs won at least one new entire county. Henry county was added to the fifty-three counties now without saloons. The dregs lost McLean and Williams counties, heretofore without saloons.

The dregs held their own in most of the towns which they won two years ago. Among the dry towns which remain dry were Belvidere, Mattoon, DeKalb, Elgin, Batavia, Car-linville, Woodstock, Freeport and Taylorsville.

Wet towns which remained wet included Savannah, St. Charles, East Lincoln and Alton.

SEATTLE, April 4.—Washington's new prohibition law is now highly "honored in the breach." If the state of affairs prevailing in Seattle is any index to that in the rest of the State, several salient facts stand out, not at all reassuring to the advocates of the prohibition law.

March shows 234 arrests for drunkenness as against 117 for February and ninety-four for January—and only sixty-six less than March of 1915, when the State was admittedly wet.

Fifty new drug stores have sprung up since January 1—some little larger than "holes in the wall."

March beer shipments into the State increased over February by more than 10,000 quarts, but orders for other liquor decreased somewhat.

The records in the Auditor's office at the Courthouse show that in January 2327 permits to ship liquor into the State were issued.

In February the number increased to 4269, and in March to 4250.

Hundreds of gallons of liquor have been destroyed by the police as fast as its owners were convicted.

"The empty saloons are filling up at a very satisfactory rate," said Henry Broderick, one of the largest dealers in rentals in the city, and, he added,
"rents have been reduced from $10 to $25."

A department store manager who was strongly against prohibition before January and who has asked that his name be not used with his statue, said: "To tell the truth, our business is much better than it was.
People are buying more for their homes, and on the whole have a more prosperous appearance than formerly."

Two special details of police, consisting of two sergeants and three to four men each, have been working constantly trying to enforce the law.
Prosecutions have failed but in few instances.

DRUGGISTS TO SELL WHISKY.
MARYSVILLE, April 4.—Druggists of Yuba City, Sutter county, are happy. Sutter county is a dry territory with the exception of one county, the big hotel in Yuba City, that the voters had to promise to permit to be wet before the election was held.

Now the City Council of Yuba City has adopted an ordinance allowing the druggists to sell whisky to all who apply, whether they have a prescription or not. The ordinance will take effect in a few days.

The ordinance, which refuses to grant a license to anyone who does not as extended druggists, allows the selling of not less than six ounces or more than thirty-two ounces of whisky to any person in a single day.

VETERINARIAN NO PHYSICIAN.
SEATTLE, April 4.—A veterinary surgeon is not a physician within the meaning of the prohibition law and has no authority to issue prescriptions for liquor. Judge Kenneth Mackintosh, in the Superior Court, so instructed a jury after Attorney Fred C. Brown said that the Attorney-General's office had given a contrary opinion. The court apparently overrules
the Attorney-General's George Banks,
No. 2409 First avenue,
was on trial for selling a small quantity of rum to O. P. Hanson, a special agent of the prosecuting attorney's office, on the representation of Hanson that he had a sore throat.

The Union Transfer Co. of San Diego, under the date of June 9, 1915, write us: "We have run our first Autocar just 24 months—our second one 19 months, with the utmost satisfaction. We have driven them with capacity loads all over San Diego county, some trips which cover our worst grades. Our cars are pulling just as well, running just as fast, making us just as many cars as when we first bought them, at no more cost of operation. The upkeep and repair bills are very small, as you know by our account. "There is absolutely no chance for argument with us, as to the least cost of operation and small cost of repair of these cars compared to other makes of cars of the same capacity." PROTECTION'S COST FIGURED.

More than Million and Quarter for Police Department.

Chief Suggests Need of a New Central Station.

Asks for Three Hundred More Regular Patrolmen.

Budget estimates covering the needs of the police department, amounting to $1,248,512 for the next fiscal year, were submitted to the Police Commission by Chief Sulyard yesterday. These estimates aggregate about $200,000 more than was allowed last year, and they include a request for 300 more regular patrolmen and increases in the salaries for lieutenants, sergeants and patrolmen all along the line.

In addition, the chief asks for one more lieutenant, ten motorcycle men, ten sergeants, one policeman who can speak Spanish, French and Italian, and two negro policemen. Additional patrol boxes, a flash-light signal system covering the whole city, and a patrol boat for the harbor district, are also requested in the budget. Chief Sulyard also calls attention to the need for a new Central Police Station. He suggests that this can be covered by a $100,000 bond issue, while a $100,000 bond issue, he says, should be provided for a San Pedro substation.

The salary schedule sought by Chief Sulyard proposes that the average salary shall be raised from $83.33 a month to $100 a month, and $110 the second year; with a maximum for patrolmen of $116 a month after the third year's service. Increases sought for the lieutenants are $10 a month. This schedule has been adopted at Oakland, the chief says.

On the subject of better quarters, Chief Sulyard says, he believes the new station should be built near the proposed civic center or near the Plaza. In the event a new City Hall is to be built, it is suggested that the central police offices might be placed on the ground floor and the cells on the top floor.

Chief Sulyard says he hopes to be able to convert the old inebriate farm on the Los Feliz road into an industrial home for women, and to provide an inebriate farm in the San Fernando Valley district.

The budget estimates will be forwarded to the Budget Committee by the Police Commission.

ASSAIL MEDICAL PRACTICE ACTS.

Federal Court Bench will Pass on State Law's Validity.

Drugless Healers Fight Rules Against Practice.

Arguments to Reach Far Back into Antiquity.

Constitutionality of medical legislation enacted by the recent Legislature, amending the various acts of 1907, and involving the legality of what are known as the medical and optometry laws, will be argued today in the United States District Court before Circuit Judge Ross and District Judges Trippett and Cushman, the latter from Tacoma.

The State will be represented by Robert M. Clarke, Assistant Attorney General; George E. Cryer, Assistant District Attorney, and Ray Nimmo, in behalf of the State Medical Board. The complainants will be represented by Tom L. Johnston.

Two cases are pending in the local Federal Court. One in which B. Crane is plaintiff, and the defendants are Gov. Johnson, Atty.-Gen. Webb and Dist. Atty. Wolvins, involving the constitutionality of the medical law requiring that practitioners must procure a license, and the prayer is to enjoin the enforcement of the law. The other has Kate P. McNaughton as plaintiff, with the same defendants and the same prayer, involving what is known as the optometry law.

The brief of the complaint in the first action goes far back in the story of civilization for an argument, and the following is a quotation: "In the code of Hammurabi, King of Babylon, fifteen centuries before the code of Moses, and which, engraved in a column of black diorite, was but recently dug up at Susa, in ancient Elam, was found regulations for the practice of the medical profession fixing a scale of fees and penalties for malpractice.

CHARLES DISCRIMINATION. In the action of Kate P. McNaughton, involving the legality of the optometry law, it is charged that the law, under the guise of a police regulation, is, in fact, not a bona fide exercise of the reasonable regulation of the legislative department of the State, in the interest of the public health and welfare, but that it creates a monopoly, favored by law for the protection of those who employ drugs in optical work.

On the part of the advocates of the law attacked, the recent opinion of the Supreme Court of California in the case of the people against George W. Jordan, will be applied. In that opinion it was held that clearly it is the purpose of the law, to protect both the individual and the public from the dangers and evils which result from treatment by those not possessing the knowledge and skill requisite in the treatment of disease with which mankind is afflicted.

HEALING BY PRAYER.

On the subject of the elimination of those who heal by prayer from the operations of the law, it will be argued that by reason of the different treatment there is a rational and intrinsic distinction. As between the drugless healers and those who treat by prayer here, too, is a distinction made. The treatment by many of the drugless healers is by manipulation of the bones and kneading of the muscles and tissues of the person treated. It is apparent that without a proper knowledge of the human body, grave consequences to the patient might follow. Not so, however, as to one who in prayer invokes divine power to afford relief to one afflicted with disease. The possession of the prescribed knowledge and skill, without which the chiropractor, osteopath and neurologist is denied the right to practice his treatment, in no wise renders the prayers of one thus treating bodily ill more efficacious in the curing of disease; nor can it be said that the prayer of an illiterate person can be more productive of harm than that of one possessing the learning and skill of an educated physician. It was obvious to the Supreme Court that no reasons exist for requiring the class engaged in treatment by prayer to possess the knowledge and skill required of others engaged in the practice of the drugless treatment.

The validity of the laws in question has been a disputed point with thousands of practitioners in California, who are affected by the operation of the legislation, and a common war has been made upon the enactments. It is understood that quite a large fund has been collected to push the controversy to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary. The laws have put a number of practitioners permanently out of business, and caused considerable distress among a class of healers who heretofore have not been affected by the medical laws of the State.

ALLEGES WHITE SLAVERY.

Indicted Man Says It's Case of Mistaken Identity.

Selwan Clayton, who served a term of enlistment in the regular army, was arrested yesterday on the charge of violating the Mann White Slave Act. He was indicted by the Federal grand jury some days ago. For some time he has been working as a laborer on the county road work.

The complaining witness is Miss Bernice Smith of San Antonio, who claims that Clayton induced her to come to Los Angeles on a promise of marriage that he never carried out. Clayton's father is said to be a business man in the Texas town.

Clayton claims that he has not been in Texas for the past four years, and asserts that it is a case of mistaken identity. His bail was fixed at $1500 by Judge Trippett, and he was lodged in the County Jail.

HELD TO GRAND JURY.

Alleged Counterfeiter Given Preliminary Hearing.

But one witness was examined yesterday before United States Commissioner Hammack, in the case of Joseph D. Clarke, charged with having counterfeited coin in his possession. At the conclusion of the testimony Clarke was held to the Federal grand jury in a bond of $5000.

The witness was J. L. Nicoll, motorcycle officer of Pasadena, who testified to finding a tin can containing five $5 counterfeit gold pieces buried in the ground in Clarke's cabin. The complaint charges him with having possession of that much of the "phony" coin, and the testimony went no further. There was no testimony submitted in behalf of Clarke.

One Dime May Save a Baby's Life.

Buy a pencil today!
With the slogan, "One Pencil Will Buy Milk for One Baby for One Day," 250 women will sell pencils on the streets today for the benefit of the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery.

BABY HANDS IN MUTE APPEAL TO CHARITABLE.

TODAY is the day of the humble dime, or, to put it more precisely, it is the day for you to buy a pencil for the benefit of the children of various nationalities and dispositions who are being cared for at the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery, No. 135 North Anderson street.

According to Mrs. Joseph P. Farrell, in charge of the campaign, there will be 250 persons selling pencils on the streets today for the upkeep of the nursery. The pencils will be sold for 10 cents each and one pencil will provide one bottle of milk for one baby for one day. Pencil day comes every two years, the proceeds of the sales being sufficient to maintain the institution for that period. The usual number of pencils, 300 gross, have been ordered. The pencils will be sold in hotels, banks, office buildings and from stands and automobiles, by volunteer club and society women of the city.

The headquarters will be in part A of the Alexandria, and the distributing office will be in Mullen and Blinn's store. Mrs. L. N. Bronewicz and Mrs. Mary Longstreet, in the morning, and Mrs. I. B. Dockweiler and Mrs. L. C. Scheller in the afternoon, will have charge of the Alexandria headquarters. Mrs. M. E. Nelson, Mrs. Charles Silk and Miss Katherine Kemper, assisted by others, will have charge of the distributing office.

GAS CASE GOES OVER.

Enforced Absence of Mulholland and How Causes Postponement.

Because of the enforced absence of Jared How, attorney for the Southern California Gas Company, and Chief Engineer Mulholland of the water department, State Railroad Commissioner Edgerton yesterday granted a request for the continuance of the hearing of the city's gas case until the 18th inst. Mr. How is tied up on the Western Pacific case in San Francisco, while Mr. Mulholland has a rate case to attend to.

The postponement leaves the case of the Southern California Gas Company to be heard in its entirety, as well as the city's rebuttal of the testimony of witnesses for the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. It is believed that at least a week will be required to conclude the case.

PRESTON GETS LAND.

Brother Arranged Against Brother in Contest Involving Quarter-section.

The contest between Preston B. and Charles H. Fuller, involving the possession of a quarter-section in the Carrizo Creek country, near the Mexican boundary line, has been decided by the General Land Office in favor of Preston B. Fuller, thus affirming the views of the local land officers, Register Roche and Receiver Mitchell. Preston B. Fuller made a homestead entry on the land May 4, 1911, but on account of uncertainty in the survey at the time he did not correctly describe his holdings. His brother instituted a contest against him, setting out that the land on which Preston had settled and which he had cultivated was not the land described in the original entry.

PRAISES CHECK DAMS.

Maj. Fries, after inspection Tour with Other Prominent Engineers, Declares Problem of Flood Prevention in Canyons in County Solved.

Maj. A. A. Fries, United States Government Engineer, formerly in charge of the Los Angeles Harbor, and United States Engineer Pillsbury, accompanied by Engineer Henry Howgood and Capt. C. T. Leeds and M. V. Hartranft, made a tour of inspection of the check dams in various canyons in the Cresencia and Monte Vista region yesterday. The morning was spent examining the private work done by A. Fuseton in Ward Canyon, at the head of Pennsylvania avenue, La Cresencia. The afternoon was given over to a detail study of Haines Canyon and its tributary side ravines.

Maj. Fries is now stationed on government work in Yellowstone Park, to which he will return next week. In response to an inquiry as to the impression of the check dam system in flood prevention, Maj. Fries said: "While the principle is not new, I have never seen it so well applied as in these two canyons. This work is worthy of careful study by every interest. There is no question but the check dams have solved the problems of flood prevention, so far as the mountain and foothill region is concerned. With regard to cascades in all torrent beds across the valleys to the sea, I cannot say without further study of the proposed plan. You have yet to demonstrate how the principle can be successfully applied in the valley, but as to the mountain difficulties it is clear that Los Angeles county has solved the problem."

DEFINES ADVERTISING.

Right Goods Need no Pretty Face to Help Sales, Says Expert.

"If your goods are genuine and have the right appeal in themselves, it will not be necessary for you to bolster up your sales with the face of a pretty girl," declared F. Wayland Ayer, a member of a Philadelphia advertising firm, yesterday, at the noon luncheon of the Ad Club in the Clark. Continuing, Mr. Ayer said: "One of the best definitions of advertising I have heard is that it is 'something to tell about something to sell.' Both of these elements are highly important. The article must be genuine and able, in a way, to advertise itself. It must be of a character that when sold will tend to make the buyer want more."

In addition to the address by Mr. Ayer, Kenton A. Miller spoke briefly on "Law in Advertising," and S. B. Wilson on "Pep in Advertising." Tom Wilson sang several humorous selections, and Hazel Malcolm and Beate Crouch gave exhibitions of classical and modern dancing. F. C. Miller was chairman of the day.

MAIDEN'S LOVE.

Appeal to Husband of Another Woman.

God Would Sanction the Children She Bears.

Given Divorce from the Much-Loved Musician.

Letters written by a young man in love with another woman, that she virtually brought into the divorce court when the suit of Mrs. Ella Anson against Alexander Anson, known as a musician, was called.
Mrs. Anson testified, she found in the pocket of her husband's clothes,
she took from his mail box,
the great bulk she says she disposed in a closet where he kept up his violin and music.

Mrs. Anson read every letter. Judge Anson offered in evidence her letters, the affection of her husband for the woman, and the fact that she would never give him the divorce. Mrs. Anson appears from the evidence to be as deeply in love with the other woman as Judge Wood granted the divorce of divorce on the allegations contained in the complaint.
Mrs. Anson will be happy with the other woman when the final decree is made, there will be no bar to their marriage.

Mrs. Anson was born in Germany.
She is a lovely woman, with a French descent. The other woman was not named. When the divorce was granted, the difference was made. But Mrs. Anson says
she did not quarrel about the war.
Her husband did not come home
early morning, she was suspicious and determined to find out what engaged his attention. She said she followed him. Two women accompanied

KIMONO SCENE.
Mrs. Anson, in a kimono, was discovered in a chair in the bedroom, her hair hanging down her face, when she was called by her husband.

Mrs. Anson testified, she was in a room when Mrs. Anson was called by her husband, she testified,
she saw the marks of his fingers on her neck, she said she was afraid to go home that night.
The next day she was called by her husband, she made up with her husband and lived with him until separation.

Mrs. Anson had an interview with her husband, and disabused her of her thing.

Mrs. Anson had told her he was in love with her. I told her I was his wife, she declared her companions on the trip to the coast, corroborated her in the police.

Mrs. Anson left in his strongly couched, very and well written. It is included in No. 1419 West Twenty-second, Wednesday eve, 8:04 and addressed "My own love."

Nothing cannot do a thing tonight thinking of you. Dearest, there is a rarer than that one day
I shall face our destiny together. I never could give you up.
It is too late for me to step out of it. Even the thought of it is a sickening pain. I never face the lifelong pain and sorrow of sacrifice. What we do is a problem. We must find a solution, for that woman married has from what you rejected your loyalty from me. The don't care for you and you know it. Your wife of all your material possessions divorce. Dearest, do you know what means?

DRAMATIC APPEAL.
You cannot leave me and marry me. That results in divorce. Your wife, who is far and your sweetheart, who is far and considered less. I will not be your choice but which is not reasonable. Don't want to think that I think highly of you. I desire that as I do mother, I was made for both, and if I could to us, I shall have both.
I would interfere to still me then will be both, and the law can little it refuses me.

I will not acknowledge the right of a woman to cripple or marriage or womanhood. No one has power to express that love so I harm no one by loving.
Love and ideas of divinity are weak to kill in me the right to love. If I am forbidden to do that in the name of the law, I shall live, love and bring my life into the name of Him who turns his back on little things.

Before that was appended,
Mrs. Anson wrote an impassioned letter, pictured from the dim underneath Sproul and Shafer
the case.

FIGURED PROFITS FROM SUING CITY.

WITNESS SAYS BITTEN ALSO HAD PLANNED SALE OF LETTERS.

Declares Defendant Offered Him Substantial Rewards of Money to be Obtained from These Prospective Sources if He Would Give False Testimony.

Harry Ellis Dean did not appear as a defense attorney for George Bitten yesterday when the latter's case was called in Judge Craig's court. He was in conference with Attorney Frank Allender and Bitten prior to the opening of the case, but left immediately afterwards. The Bitten letters were not taken by him before the grand jury yesterday, the latter body not being in session.

Choosing of the jury was speedy.
Mrs. Ella M. Levy, complaining witness, who alleges that the former private detective stole $750 from her, testified that she had given this amount to Bitten on two occasions, $500
on April 28 and $250 on May 25.
These sums were supposed to be invested in an air pump patented by William Bruton, and Mrs. Levy was to receive an income of $250 a week out of her total investment.

Several of these payments were made before she alleges Bitten quit coming to her with the alleged dividends. Detective Joseph Ritch and Miss Evelyn Beemer, a stenographer
in the district attorney's office, testified that Bitten made the request that he swear to receiving this, and that he offered a substantial reward, to be obtained through the sale of several letters to a local morning paper for $12,000, and also from the $20,000 he expected to get through a suit against the police department for false imprisonment.

Deputy District Attorney Shelley cross-examined Bruton at length in order to bring out more strongly this phase of the case, which will later be made the basis of another action against Bitten.

Lieut. A. G. Layne of the San Francisco police department and Detective Kainback of the same city, who arrested Bitten in the northern city, will follow Bruton on the stand today.

DESERTION THE CAUSE.
Mrs. Ethel Bartlett, wife of Contractor, Sues for Divorce.
Alleging desertion, Mrs. Ethel Bartlett, wife of B. S. Bartlett, building contractor, yesterday filed suit for divorce and custody of their 10-year-old son.

The Bartletts were married in Nabraska in 1904. March 3, last year,
Mr. Bartlett, according to the complaint, left their home at No. 1417 South Bonnie Bras street, and did not return. He is still living in the city. The Bartletts have been residents of this city for eight years, and both have numerous friends here. The boy, Howard, is attending a local military academy. Mrs. Bartlett is living in a bungalow on West Thirty-ninth street.

PROTESTS FIRE ALARM PROJECT.

Expert Says it is Inadequate and Extravagant.

Objects to Bond Scheme as a "Patchwork Measure."

Finance Committee Considers a Call for Vote on It.

Vigorous protest against adoption of any plan for a "patchwork halfway bonding measure" for the establishment of a police and fire alarm system for Los Angeles was filed by N. N. Banks Cregier with the City Council yesterday. Mr. Cregier refers to the proposal made by the Finance Committee to call for a bond issue immediately of $450,000 for a new fire and police alarm system.

"Such a sum is wholly insufficient to install an adequate service," says
Mr. Cregier. "The claim that an efficient system can be advantageously built in units is not good with those acquainted with the situation."

Mr. Cregier states that the plan contemplated will shut out competition for the installation of a complete and adequate system, and would only mean patching up the present antiquated system, long ago condemned as notoriously inefficient and unsafe. Furthermore, he says, any attempt to rejuvenate the system in units as contemplated by the $450,- 000 bond issue will involve the city in a tangle of perpetual expense for repairs, extensions and now and larger cables as the system grows.

The city electrical department, Mr.
Cregier says, has made no estimate of the ultimate cost of a patchwork programme, and no reliable estimate can be made.

The letter to the Council says:
About three years ago the writer made a survey and estimate of installing a new and complete fire and police system throughout the city, in approximately 10 square miles of actually built-up territory. Outside engineers were called in consultation and a detailed estimate carefully prepared. It found then that at least 1200 boxes would be required for the fire alarm and not less than 700 boxes for the police system.

A private departmental telephone system was included in the estimate at practically no additional cost and with a saving to the city of $14,000 a year for the rent of telephone and connecting wires.

Since this estimate was made the city has grown considerably, and the fire department already asks for 1500 boxes. Yet at that time, three years ago, the most careful estimate for the completed three systems called for an expenditure of $350,000.

Now, your committee is asked to submit to the people at the next election a $450,000 bonding proposal for a new fire alarm and police system on the plea that the same can be built in units. Fire alarm systems are not built that way—not under a business-like administration and with due regard to the ultimate expense. Fire and police systems are now installed on an ultimate capacity basis, and then extended as the city grows. Possibly some sort of a unit system could be devised, but that would mean building in certain districts and leaving other districts unprotected—yet

the whole people are asked to pay for it.

There is neither fairness nor economy in this, I respectfully submit to your committee, and I regret that such an inadequate and extravagant plan be not submitted to the people.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.
(At Home.) General news bearing upon international conditions continues of a very favorable character, and although the demand for investments is good, prices of securities are held stationary or forced down by pools and cliques that have found themselves on the wrong side, one way or the other. This is particularly true in sugar stocks. Metals were all stronger. War issues are irregular. Wheat acreage is smaller and the demand greater, with a resultant rise in prices.
(For details, see financial pages.)

OUR INADEQUATE CONGRESSMEN.

It needs no ghost come from the dead, nor does it need the labor of a $20,000-per-annum tariff commission to prove to Congress that a duty of one cent per pound on lemons is needed to equalize the difference between the wages paid in Sicily to Sicilian orchard workers and the wages paid to Americans in California; and if the Democratic Congressmen from California had any influence whatever with their Democratic associates they would secure protection to citrus fruit, notwithstanding the expenditure of lemon importers of New York of $140,000 to "convince" Congress of the necessity of hamstringing the California citrus fruit industry.

BURIED IN FIGURES.

Where is the citizen who can honestly say that he thoroughly understands all that is going on in the gas rate case before the State Railroad Commission? Only the most expert can do so. Once an English duke was drowned in a butt of wine, but the faithful attendants at the gas rate hearing are daily dumped in vats of figures. Of course, at the conclusion of the hearing, we may expect something coherent, something that the plain man in the street can understand, to emerge from the commission's headquarters. Until then he who loves figures and statistics may gorge himself on the reports; the rest of the city will read the baseball stories.

COMB CLEANERS.

Small improvements in everyday conveniences often bring inventors larger fortunes than big scientific discoveries. The Californian who has just patented a device for speedily and effectively cleaning the common or domestic hair comb may climb into the millionaire class. The comb is an article in everyday use and keeping it absolutely clean and "ungummed with foreign substances" is no easy matter, the finer the teeth the more difficult the operation. Many bald heads and much premature shedding of raven tresses and golden locks can be attributed to faultily cleansed hair combs. On the supposition that prevention is better than cure, the millions spent annually on hair restorers and scalp tonics may now find their way into the pockets of the genius who has invented a comb cleaner.

REVEREND BLACKGUARD.

At the "Rev." William P. Nicholson of Darby, Pa., is correctly reported in the columns of our steamed Progressive morning contemporary, he is as venomous as a July rattlesnake. He said in a sermon entitled "Hell," "If there is any dirty bound who needs the stuffing knocked out of him it is the preacher who does not warn his flock of hell. Show me the meaty-mouthed, twentieth century, love-dovey, Jennifered sinner of a pastor who excuses the warnings of hell in the Bible as flights of metaphor or symbolism and I will show you a traitor to his calling."

The Apostles differed with the "Rev." Mr. Nicholson.

"He that loveth not knoweth not God for God is love."
"We ought to love one another."
"God is love and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him."—1 John 4th chapter, 8, 11, 12.

CANCELLING TRADE-MARKS.

We learn in a two-line cable that Australia has suspended the trade-marks of 450 articles of enemy manufacture. This is carrying frightfulness to a hideous extreme, for is not a registered trade-mark something in the nature of a gentleman's agreement with the foreigner? There is another war condition which does not permit an enemy to recover debt by law, but quite early in the war Great Britain and Canada agreed not to enforce this gentlemanly rule, and the people were advised by the courts not to attempt to take advantage of it.

But all the countries have revoked patents and trade-marks of the enemy which opens the way for any amount of commercial theft, and, unless things are promptly readjusted when the war is concluded, it will make for considerable confusion and fraud, and will reflect to the disadvantage of the consumer of whatever nationality he may be. For the trade-mark invariably serves as a guarantee of worth. It is safe to say that in the councils of nations which must inevitably follow the war, the subject of patents and trade-marks for the safeguarding of respectable and legitimate commerce will be one of the first to demand attention. At the present time thousands of strivers are endeavoring to imitate German products for instance, and with the law on their side and free permission to infringe patents and violate trade-marks, the just rewards of commercial genius and integrity will be swept away, and in multitudinous cases an inferior article will supplant the original, to the detriment of the ultimate consumer everywhere.

THE MEXICAN BANDIT.

Senor Villa doesn't appear to be caught just yet; he may be captured soon, however. A gentleman with gambling propensities might find something in the situation to interest him. Metaphorically, theoretically—or it may be mythically—Villa has been pretty well cut to pieces, shot up and knocked about. Only the most lethal argle among the correspondents haven't overtaken rumors of Villa's capture.

Villa is much like "Red" Lopez, his lieutenant. Lopez was first killed three months ago by a band of Texas cowboys. There is no doubt about this as he was positively identified. Then again he was killed in the Columbus raid. As before, all doubt was dissipated by positive identification. But this phenomenal Mexican refused to stay in either grave dug for him on American soil, and was again positively identified as dead after Col. Dodd's troops got through shooting at the Villistas in the Santa Maria Valley. So it looks as if it's not going to be an easy matter to kill off these bandits. Villa lost a leg at about the same place where Lopez met his latest death, but it hasn't seemed to impair his running ability.

We have some dandy troopers down there across the border, but they're not used to such tactics as these. Only at military maneuvers are the dead men supposed to get up and fight again the next day. But if the Mexicans jump out of their graves and start all over again, as Lopez does, it will be all right unless our administration becomes nervous.

A skittish and temperamental administration it is, one that is peering at the Mexican situation through a knot hole instead of surveying it from a hill top with a telescope. Certain Washington correspondents seem to think that Villa is the only bandit; that he alone rode into Columbus, burned much of the town, and shot down American men and women. But when we say that Funston has gone in after Villa, nobody outside of Washington has the idea that Gen. Funston has taken a horse pistol and started chasing Francisco Villa, alone. Funston's men have gone after Villa and Villa's men, his bandits, his murderers, the men who have harried the American border for the past four years.

Villa is far from being the only rascal that was at Columbus, or the only one who has tortured and slaughtered American citizens.

But some very foolish dispatches have been coming out of Washington to the effect that our government plans a great celebration when Villa is captured, and then will call the punitive expedition back home. Francisco Villa himself is hardly of importance enough to require 10,000 American soldiers to go after him personally. If he is, instead of trying to catch him and carry him off to Carranza's hangman, the United States should hire him as part of our preparedness programme. Eight such men as he would be able to stand off our entire army. But it is another situation entirely if those 10,000 soldiers are down there after the thousand Villistas. The ratio of ten to one is not at all abnormal when invading a mountainous country, but the ratio of 10,000 to one would seem too preposterous for even a Democratic administration to countenance.

The expedition went into Mexico to stop the crimes of the Villa bandits. If Villa is caught and the phenomenal Lopez, for instance, remains, or any other of the many bandits capable of being chiefs, our expedition will have been largely in vain. As daring bandits as Villa have been killed before now in recent years. Orozco was his equal in every respect, his master in many. But the guerrilla warfare against American citizens has continued and will continue until the last villain is effectively "reformed." It is not necessary to catch and hang each one; but it is necessary to kill off so many of them that the remainder will find it salutary to his for parts unknown and keep quiet. To withdraw the expedition simply because Francisco Villa changes to get in the way of a bullet while his thousand or so followers are at large, as desperate as ever, and more enraged than ever over the death of their chief, would be a folly which none but President Wilson could regard otherwise than as absurd.

The punitive expedition must not be withdrawn until peace and order are assured along the border, until American homes and American lives are safe from the depredations and raids of bandits, no matter whether they are led by Francisco Villa or "Red" Lopez or any other scoundrel—not until the bandits have ceased to exist as such; and if necessary, not until they are exterminated. Carranza himself has declared each man of them an outlaw who is beyond the pale and that each should be killed on sight. That doesn't mean Villa alone, but the criminal Villistas—the whole bandit horde. And our expedition will have been futile unless the administration permits the work to be thorough and comprehensive.

HOW ABOUT THE FUTURE?

There is a difference of opinion as to the industrial conditions that will exist in Europe at the conclusion of the war. It is estimated the loss by death and wounds to the working force of Europe will, at the end of a year from this time, amount to fourteen millions of men. That is a good many men, but it is only 3 per cent. of the population of the eleven countries engaged in the war. The loss by death and disability to the competitive working force of Europe will be balanced, as stated by Senator Newlands, "by the immediate training and discipline of armies of men, women and children who, during the war, have been trained in industrial pursuits and, added to the workers returning from the ranks, will constitute an industrial force unsurpassed in the history of commercial and manufacturing life."

The workers of Europe may be so driven by poverty and debt that they will produce more cheaply than ever, and instead of there being an increase of wages after the war, owing to the reduction in the number of the male workers, there may be a reduction in wages in Europe as the result of the great influx of the women and children workers. They will have a stimulus to enormous production—the stimulus of necessity and of want.

Meanwhile in this country, driven temporarily to a higher wage scale by the manufacture of munitions of war and the continuous and cumulative exactions of the labor unions, the difference between the labor cost of production in Europe and the labor cost of production in the United States will be so increased that a restoration of the Republican tariff, with an advance on former dutiable charges, would be absolutely necessary to protect our home market.

As for foreign markets, we shall be apt to lose altogether the slight advantages we have recently gained. The European nations—to quote Senator Newlands again—"have the advantage of the most perfect transportation system in the world. Their ships are now interned in every harbor ready to sail upon the termination of the war and to regain their control over mercantile seas. They have the most perfect domestic transportation system, dovetailing with rail and river, and dovetailing with ocean steamers, and we shall have to contend, not only against the competition of foreign goods in our own markets, but we shall have to face competition with them in the markets which we have recently gained in other countries; and we shall therefore need every enlightened economic aid in an adjustment for preparedness."

What economic aid, other than a restoration of a protective tariff, is available? With the Underwood tariff Europe can buy our cotton, transport it to Britain or Belgium or France or Germany, spin it and weave it with their cheap labor, and send the product to either Buenos Ayres or Boston and sell it cheaper than our American manufacturers can make it, if they pay American wages.

It may be that a protective tariff would exclude the product of our looms and furnaces from foreign markets, but it would preserve our home market for our home workers, and what shall it profit us if we gain the markets of the whole world and lose those of our own country? Besides, with the Underwood tariff, we could neither gain foreign markets nor hold the home market without cutting down the wages of American workers. As they would not submit to such reduction the alternative would be silent factories, closed furnaces and forges and deserted mines.

Under existing circumstances what an uncompensated, irreparable, mentally injured, deaf, dumb and blind as a worker will be who votes the Democratic "tariff for revenue only" ticket.

LIBEL ON WASHINGTON.

A nice point of law may be raised by the ruling of Superior Judge Card that one Paul R. Haffer of Tacoma must answer to a charge of libel for having branded George Washington in a newspaper as an exploiter of slaves and addicted to the use of profanity and liquor. The slender and insult conveyed by such expressions against the father of our country will be universally condemned by their author the contempt of his neighbors and the disgust of patriotic citizens. The legal point is whether it is possible to libel a man after he is dead, for a libel to be actionable must entail injury or damage to the person libeled, and certainly no words spoken by this nonentity in Tacoma can damage or injure the reputation of George Washington.

Of course it is true that George Washington was not opposed to the slave trade—nobody was in his days—the question had not been brooded. As well hold up to public scorn the pious and worthy men who preceded the researches of Galileo asserted that the sun traveled around the earth.

You can't charge a man with neglect of his duty for not being ahead of his times.

If we credit historical records we must also admit that when occasion demanded George Washington could employ strong, short, crimson words that would not pass muster in a Sunday-school class. None the less Washington was not a profane man; he was a militant Christian and a devout worshiper, but he was not without the "righteous anger" recommended to Christians by the Apostle Paul. In other words he was a red blooded human being. Also, as was the custom of the times, Washington kept an excellent wine cellar and served his guests, not with grape juice and piffle, but with vintage ports and sherries and robust conversation. The critic who would carp at him for this might go a step further and find fault with the Redeemer for turning the water into wine at the wedding feast in Cana of Galilee. Washington was temperate in days when the "two-bottle man" was as a rule in the best society.

During his lifetime the father of his country was the object of scurrilous abuse at the hands of opposition newspapers that today we would not employ against a second rate politician. Changed times, changed manners. Really it hardly seems worth while to take the case of this Tacoma huckster before the Superior Court. A swift kick on the most convenient part of his anatomy, followed by a dip in a well muddied horse pond, might be the best way to convince him of the beauty of the old Latin proverb, "De mortuis nil nisi bonum"—especially when the dead man is one of the three greatest figures in all history.

BITS OF VERSE.

The Secret.

Often when from the chalice of sweet song
My soul has drunk the dreams of loveless
I've wondered if I, too, might some day press
The vines and fruit of life so well, ere long Might give the world a vintage so divine.
But seed nor season, lab'ring hoe nor knife
Suffice alone—the secret of all life
Is in the secret of the vintner's wine.
The fullest fruit with richest purple hue
Mellows but slowly in the fairest clime;
Treasured away the many seasons through,
Its worth enriches: so the full desires,
The vintage of the heart and soul, with time
Must mellow in the love that best inspires.

THE DAY.

I give the day my first and best—
A song from out a dream-girt breast:
I give it hope, I give it cheer—
The day that walks in glory here,
And takes me with it where it goes
To find some garden of the roses,
Some dream, some charm, some toll, some treasure
To make the toll of life seem sweet.

I give the day my noon of rest.
My first, my last, my all, my best;
I give it faith and trust and bloom,
And in its sun or in its gloom
I walk with strength of heart and soul
To strain my ardor for the goal,
To reach the hills and take the height,
So that I may deserve its light.

The day, the day, the living chance,
The sunbeams that round us dance,
The singing air, the keening wind,
The leaping blood and bubbling mind,
The muscles slipping smooth and fine
Along the limbs, the nerves that twine
Their branching wonder top to toe—
I give the day the best I know.
—[Baltimore Sun.]

The Book.

The guns had ceased, the new sun blest the earth.
Into my heart there stole a sense of ease
Soft as the summer wind through summer
trees
That brings a thousand airy scents to birth.
I took my Book that tells of pure Love's worth,
St. John, historian of mysteries,
And read that tale illumined by degrees
Written in tears of men for angels' mirth:
Of sisters twain who mourned a brother
dead;
Of Martha's grave, who went her Lord to meet,
Of Him who wept, then raised his friend
from tomb;
Of Him, a guest at a white table spread,
And Mary's tears prophetic of His feet,
And of her income filling all the room.

"Cling Fast to Hope."

Who thinks tomorrow will not bring him more Than the sad days and years he's passed before.
Who thinks that joy is false and love a cheat,
That since some things are bitter, none are sweet.
Has cast away—or lost—his kindest friend:
Hope; which all men should cherish to the end.

Cling fast to hope! What though she show to thee
Visions of gladness which shall never be, Wouldst thou walk blindly through a darkened vale
Because the sun shows heights thou canst not scale?
Wouldst thou tear down the drapery of thy halls
Because it hides the rough and jagged walls?

Man of the downcast face, lift up thine eyes.
Look on the world which all around thee lies.
To left and right full many a path thou'lt find.
Whose first long stage was grief and misery,
And yet which ended in the ways of ease, Leading along cool brooks, 'mid flowers and trees.

Remember this: That in a life whose sum includes both joy and sorrow, there must come
A time when sorrow, having spent his all
Of wrath upon thy head, must then let fall
His shattered sword, and give unwilling place
To joy, who follows him with shining tabs.

So when, the end approaching, thou lookest back
Over the lights and shadows of thy track,
And by the clear rays of the setting sun
Seest plain what blessings thou hast lost or won,
Thou then canst lift thy voice and raise thine eyes,
And thank the God above thee in the skies
That in the darkness where thou oft didst grope
There was not lost thy greatest treasure, hope.
—[D. M. Goetgus, in New York Sun.]

THE FAREWELL PLACE.

It's the same old world, in shine and shade,
That God in the first sweet morning made;
Same sweet stars in the sky above,
With light like the light in the eyes you
love;
Same old round o' the rosy years;
Same old sorrows you see through tears;
Same old road, and same old race
To run with a dream of the Farewell Place.

O the wealth folk rise and dare the skies
To watch their fire where the lightning flashes;
And you hear the loud war thunders beat Till they shake the graves at a war king's feet;
And the paths of human life are crossed
Where the Rachels weep for their children lost;
Same old road where the burdened race
Take tears and dreams to the Farewell Place.

And with right and wrong we press along
From night to the dream of a morning song;
Same old story of sorrows old;
Same sweet joys that the heart would hold;
And the wounded breast still sighs for rest—
And rest comes sweet when God thinks the face
At the shining gates of the Farewell Place.

tion.]

Life's Gentler Side—Society, Music, Song and the Dance—The Theater

SOCIETY.

When Arthur Lusk Trowbridge, fiance of Miss Mary Trowbridge, arrived Friday from his home in Noroton, Ct., the dates are to be decided on for many antenuptial events which Miss Trowbridge's friends hope to crowd in before the time of her marriage, set for 4:30 o'clock the evening of Saturday, the 19th, at the historic Church of the Angels, Garvanza.

Mrs. O. F. Giff of San Francisco, mother of Mrs. Tuffa, has been down from the north for many weeks, interested in the preparations for her pretty grand-daughter's elaborate trousseau, and Gardner Trowbridge, a brother of the groom-elect, is coming shortly to stay until after the important event and to attend the bridal party in the person of best man.

Mrs. Thomas Weeks Banks, at whose home the engagement was formally told, is to be matron of honor, with Miss Mary Hughes and Miss Beatrice Finckelstein bridesmaids, and the brides-to-be, Miss Tuffa and Miss Fick of Pasadena, flower girls.

Miss Tuffa is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Tuffa of No. 480 South Occidental boulevard. She has never made her presentation to society, having gone soon after her graduation at Marlborough upon a tour of the world, in company with her mother. In fact, it was upon this voyage, in India, that Mr. Trowbridge and his brother, just out of Princeton and on tour, first met his fiancée, coming later with his mother to Southern California. Later Miss Tuffa was the guest at Noroton, Long Island Sound, and in New York City, the engagement being announced soon upon her return.

The groom-elect is the son of James Trowbridge, a New York financier, and the couple will reside in that city.

For a bride-to-be.

An antenuptial courtesy, delightful in character, was extended by Mrs. Grace Widney-Mabes of No. 351 Van Ness avenue in the form of a miscellaneous shower to Miss Flora T. Simpson on the afternoon of Saturday. The honoree is to become the bride of Walter K. Widney on the evening of the 12th, the service to be read at the Simpson home, No. 175 South Commonwealth avenue. Five and green were combined decoratively, the bride, a dainty umbrella of pink and white and roses being suspended from the chandelier over the dining table, with ribbons extended and hearts on the extreme ends. This held the many pretty gifts, which were excitedly opened. Following the two-course luncheon, Miss Simpson is a pupil of Mrs. Mabes, and hidden were a number of other pupils, who brought their fancy work. Many contributed to a pleasing impromptu programme. Present were Miss Simpson, Miss Olive Bolinger, Miss Beatrice Bailey, Miss Annis Howell, Miss Winnifred Zisick, Mrs. Kahn, Mrs. Inez Jacobson, Mrs. Burton Andrews of Riverside, Miss Sophie Taylor of Woodhull, Ill., Miss Margaret Patterson, Miss Isabel Kelley, Mrs. Jack Koster and Miss Margaret Coe.

In Compliment to Sister.

At her home, No. 422 Westminister avenue, Mrs. Roscoe Neal will entertain for her sister, Mrs. John Young of Springfield, Missa, the coming week.

Wins Charming Bride.

When a few intimate friends of Miss Kitty Barrere were invited by that charming young woman to her beach cottage at Laguna last Saturday they had no import that a little the day would be a most interesting event to manage—the culmination of Miss Barrere's interesting romance, which linked almost instantly into a pretty, though extremely simple, wedding with Walter C. Durgin, one of the most popular eligibles of the city.

With the appearance of the Rev. Dr. Truitt of the Presbyterian Church, however, came the surprise, for the happy couple took their places attended by the bride's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. J. and plighted their troth.

Now they are occupied in finding a suitable residence, where they soon hope to be at home to their large circle of friends, who are extending to them congratulations as they learn of the well-kept secret.

Mr. Durgin, long associated in banking, is at present affiliated with the California Savings Bank, and is one of the well-known Masons of the Southland.

To Reside in Ocean Park.

Miss Amelia Western Fowler and William G. J. Reid were quietly married Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Christ Church, Dr. L. M. Idemian officiating. The bride's cousin, Miss Eleanor Whiting, acted as maid of honor, Mr. Robert Russell as best man and Sidney S. Van Horn and George E. Reid as ushers.

The bride was given by her uncle, Dr. Garrett L. Hogan. The wedding supper was served at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Garrett L. Hogan, on West Adams street. The guests included Mrs. Amelia Hogan, Mrs. P. E. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Whiting, Miss Amelia Hogan, Dr.

Mme. Constance Balfour, who will participate in tonight's programs for the new citizens.

and Mrs. Hogan and the wedding party.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid will reside in Ocean Park until the fall.

To Meet Haywards.

Cards have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haywards for Friday evening from 8 until 11 o'clock to meet Mr. and Mrs. Max Everett Haywards. The event will be held at the Haywards home at No. 5515 Ash street.

Going to the Beach.

To break the monotony of the dull Lenten season, the Hotel Virginia is planning to give a mid-Lent special ball on Saturday evening. Dinner reservations have already been made by many Los Angeles and Pasadena society people, who are planning a trip to the beach for the week-end guests.

Wife of Service Man Here.

Mrs. G. N. Ravenscroft, the wife of Lieut. Ravenscroft, is domiciled at the Hotel Virginia. She is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Webber, who has been at the beach throughout the winter. Lieut. Ravenscroft is at present stationed on the Island of Haiti.

Literary Coterie Entertained.

Mrs. George P. Stinson of Pasadena recently entertained a group of her friends who constitute the Wednesday Morning Reading Club at a luncheon at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The table was a mass of gold and purple blossoms, and around it were gathered Mrs. Thomas McDougall, Mrs. Eldridge Fowler, Mrs. H. H. Stehman, Mrs. E. P. Clapp, Mrs. J. A. Cole, Mrs. John Willis Baer, Mrs. Hanford N. Lockwood, Mrs. David B. Gamble, Mrs. Norman Bridge, Mrs. Charles Gates, Mrs. W. L. Green, Mrs. R. T. Blow, Mrs. William R. Nash and Mrs. Charles Stinchfield.

On Way North.

En route to San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M. Graves and family have motored to Del Monte for a few weeks stay, as is their annual custom.

Interesting Folk.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kendrick Bangs are enjoying a few days rest at Del Monte before continuing to San Francisco, where Mr. Bangs is to give a series of lectures.

In Wild Florida.

Mrs. William W. Hillson, a Pasadena woman, was hostess at a delightful luncheon at the Beverly Hills Hotel yesterday, her guests numbering fifteen. The table was a wilderness of dainty wild flowers, poppies, fleur de lis and lilies.

alone is going to see the picture for.

His characterization of the man who has lost his memory and fallen among thieves shows the fineness of touch, sureness of artistry and delicate touch which he can bring to such a role. The scene depicting the rescue of the little slum boy is one of the best bits of acting ever shown on the screen.

Clune's Broadway.

"The Havoc," a play of the eternal triangle, with the "regular man" and the professional lover, as being shown at the Broadway Theatre, with Lewis Stone in the leading role of the deserted husband and Gladys Hanson as the wife.

Lewis Stone adapts himself so well to each part he portrays that one is nearly always tempted to resort to that phrase, "he never played a role better suited to him," to describe any new one in which he appears. But it is certain that in "The Havoc" he is the hard, selfish, yet withal just and generous-souled man to the life. The same may be said of Gladys Hanson's portrayal of the heart-broken wife, who clings to him to the wiles of the professional lover.

Occasionally there is a picture which reveals a whole tremendous drama can be "gotten over" without the aid of spoken language. "The Havoc" as it is played by Lewis Stone and company is one of these.

Symphony.

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are a good, safe, reliable pair to throw on the screen at any time, in order to capture the film fans.

And Bushman this week, in his regimental, as a soldier in "The Wall Between," can safely win all the matinee girls in town. Not only is he handsome, but he is very, very noble in "The Wall Between," and you certainly can't beat that combination.

The picture has a thrilling and lively plot and is excellently staged.

END COMES QUICKLY.

Visitor, Overcome by Heart Failure.

Dies Before Aid Reaches Him.

Falling to the pavement near Thirty-eighth street and Central avenue early Monday night, George W. Matthews, about 60 years of age, a resident of Earlville, Iowa, died of heart failure before he could call for help.

Mr. Matthews came to Los Angeles from his home in Iowa about a month ago and was staying with P. G. Dickson of No. 536 East Thirty-third street. Monday afternoon the aged man started out for a walk and was overcome a few blocks away.

Rushed to the Receiving Hospital in the police ambulance, Mr. Matthews was declared dead by Police Surgeon Wiley, and the body taken to the Bureau morgue. His family in Earlville will be notified by the police.

Mr. Matthews was a member of the Onondaga Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 132, of Earlville, and the Tudor Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 225, Greeley, Iowa.

"The Lost Bridegroom," in which John Barrymore appears at the Woodley Theatre, is a very lively comedy-drama indeed. TUGWELL'S FATE IN THE BALANCE.

Defense Insists There Probably was no Murder.

Points Out that Mrs. Kennedy may Have Killed Self.

State Begins an Analysis of Entire Testimony.

The case of Percy Tugwell failed to go to the jury yesterday afternoon owing to the long arguments of the defense attorneys, which lasted to within half an hour of the close of the day.

At that time Deputy District Attorney Doran began a careful analysis of the defense arguments, characterizing these as nothing more than misinterpretation and misconstruction of testimony as given throughout the trial.

"In an effort to shift responsibility and to divert your minds, the three defense attorneys have used a scatter gun and produced eight main points in an effort to conceal the actual facts," declared Mr. Doran. "They have insinuated that 'Cyclone Thompson,' or Anotsky, Phillip Kennedy, Burt de Normandie, a burly man wearing a derby hat, or Boye Heights individual, name unknown, may have done the killing."

"They endeavor in every possible way to make it appear suicide on the part of Mrs. Maud B. Kennedy, and then, through hours of quotations from works of fiction and novels, endeavor to instill a deep fear into the hearts of every member of the jury on the ground of convicting an innocent man. After a fierce attack on the prosecution from every angle, they try to place into your minds that there is nothing as possible or as plausible as the absolute innocence of Percy Tugwell."

TO JURY TODAY.

At this point Judge Houser decided to take an adjournment until this morning. Deputy District Attorney Doran stated that he would be brief and complete his argument no later than noon.

The greater portion of yesterday was occupied by Attorney Earl Rogers, who delivered a strong plea for his client, insisting principally upon the point that there was probably no murder at all and that Mrs. Kennedy had committed suicide.

In concluding his statements along this line, he declared that the woman, who had been kicked off her slipper, torn off her necklace and disarranged her waist about the throat in the last throes of convulsion from being taken the chloroform, ammonia or other poison. He dwelt long on the horror of convicting an innocent man, and also upon the coroner's alleged to have been made by Tugwell.

He cited from ponderous tomes number of instances in which persons have been convicted to crimes which they never committed and in several cases suffered the death penalty before they were discovered. Tugwell's confession, he declared, had been given by an immature youth, a boy of weak mentality, after days and days of hammering on the part of the officers, in order to shield his best friend, Phillip Kennedy. When the latter repudiated his friendship Tugwell immediately declared the confession a falsehood, thereby showing the vacillating character of his mind, and the fact that he had been under fearful mental stress, according to this pleader.

Attorney Rogers insisted that the trial of Tugwell was not even a murder case; that there was no evidence to show that murder had been committed, and that the jury was little more than a coroner's jury.

Proceeding this argument came the continuation of the plea of Attorney Dominguez. He took up the train of his four-hour address of the day previous and talked several more hours yesterday morning. Practically his whole argument had to do with conviction of circumstantial evidence.

COMPOSITE PICTURE.

Idea of Christ Portrayed in Film.

Drawn from Many Masters. No character appearing in the hundreds of photodramas produced under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince ever received more careful consideration, it is stated, than did that of Christ in the stupendous multiple peace spectacle, "Civilization," to have its premiere at the Majestic

April 17.

Even before attempting to choose an actor for the part, Mr. Ince made a protracted and thorough study of the famous paintings of Christ. His idea was not to emulate the conception of a particular artist, but to catch the spirit of all the masters and present a composite picture that would all inspiring and thoroughly in keeping with the spiritual element in the production.

Finally convinced that the characterization he had in mind was proper and fitting, Ince decided upon George Fisher, one of his young leading men. The actor and producer held a long conference during which Ince outlined his idea of how the Christ should be portrayed. As a result, Fisher experimented in "making up" for the part and finally succeeded in meeting with Mr. Ince's idea of the characterization.

In the production he appears wearing long hair and a beard. His garments are white, forming the robe that is uniformly used by the world-famous artists in their full-length figures of Christ.

"COURTESY FIRST" POLICY. Mrs. Rosamonde Wright was re-elected president of the Humane Animal Commission yesterday, and the commission prepared instructions to all of the inspectors and employees of the department outlining a policy of "courtesy first" in all dealings with the public. Thomas Fox, one of the new members of the commission, said yesterday that hereafter no "strong-arm" tactics will be countenanced and all inspectors and license collectors will be informed that while efficiency will be insisted upon, they will be required to do their work without arousing antagonism or giving cause for complaint.

QUARTER-MILE CHAMPION CANNOT RUN IN MEET

SLOMAN HERE; CAN'T COMPETE

Trip to Corvallis Keeps Him Out of Meet.

Willing to Run Exhibition or Stay Out.

In Fact Doesn't Care Much Either Way.

BY HOWARD ANGUS

Frank Sloman, the phenomenal high school quarter-mile runner, is here and does not care whether he runs in the State meet Saturday or not. He adopts the common sense viewpoint that if he is eligible he will compete and if he is ineligible that he cannot, and he is not going to worry over the matter.

He arrived from San Francisco yesterday with the best intentions in the world of training here for three days and then breaking the State prep record for the quarter-mile. He was playing cards at his brother's residence, No. 3120 Stanford avenue, when the news of his ineligibility was broken to him. He never stopped dealing. He merely raised his eyebrows inquiringly.

WHAT HE SAYS

"Of course I would like to compete Saturday," he said, "but if I'm ineligible that settles the matter. If it can be arranged I would like to run an exhibition quarter-mile. It seems too bad to come here and not get a chance to run at all.

"If I'm ineligible I'll just turn this little trip into a visit with my brother. He is the real reason for my coming south anyway. I wanted to see him more than I care to run."

"Let me see who did I deal the last card to?"

A MYSTERY.

The reason for the barring of Sloman is a mystery. E. W. Oliver, vice-principal of Los Angeles High School, who is managing the State championships, received this telegram from the north yesterday: "Sloman declared ineligible. Particulars later." Up to a late hour last night no particulars had made their appearance.

"I do not know what the reason is," said Mr. Oliver last night, "evidently the bay section of the federation has barred him for some reason."

Sloman was as much at sea as Mr. Oliver.

"It may be that my high school is not a member of the federation," he said. "The San Francisco city schools have never been in the federation. I don't know what difference that might make."

A RUMOR.

The rumor has been spread that the reason for the barring of Sloman was his trip to Corvallis as a member of the Olympic Club. On the ground that an athlete cannot compete for a club and high school at the same time. If this was the reason for barring him, the rule was one made by the bay section itself.

San Francisco is blaming the south for the Sloman muddle, hinting that sectional jealousies between the north and the south prompted it.

WHO'S SLOMAN?

Some people may be asking: Who is this Frank Sloman that he should cause all this fuss? Frank Sloman, first sprang into fame at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. He ran the 440-yard dash in 57 seconds, the record at that time. There was a wind behind him and the record was not allowed. But his time caused a great deal of excitement in the athletic world, for Sloman was only an 18-year-old high school boy. Maxey Long's record had stood for years unchallenged.

HIS PERFORMANCES.

The next day Sloman ran the quarter-mile again in the senior meet. Ted Merdith beat him by about two yards in 47 seconds. On the ground that a runner cannot compete for a club and high school at the same time. If this was the reason for barring him, the rule was one made by the bay section itself.

It is to be hoped that he will run Saturday either in the championship quarter or in an exhibition.

SKENES WINS GOLD MEDAL FOR LOW SCORE.

PINEHURST (N. C.) April 4.—Charles Skenes of Lake Forest, Ill., and the Woods Hole Club, Massachusetts, won the gold medal for low qualifying score in the United North and South golf championship tournament, which began here today.

Skenes made the eighteen holes in 72 and was four strokes better than his nearest competitors, Jesse Guilford of Boston and C. J. Bellamy of Springfield, who tied with 77 each.

Phillip Carter of New York was fourth with 78. One hundred and eighty players are entered.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—With the score tied in the ninth inning, Outfielder Rousch hit safely and brought in the run that enabled the New York Nationals to defeat the New Orleans Southern Association team here today, 5 to 4. Score: New York—Runs, 5; hits, 9; errors, 6. New Orleans—Runs, 4; hits, 8; errors, 1. Batteries—Tessera and Doolin, Rousch; Smith, Walker and Deberry.

FRANK CHANCE BOUNCED BY UMPIRE "RED" HELD.

While Encouraging His Fighting Angels to Victory in the First Game of the 1916 Season, He is Fired from the Coaching Line—Record-breaking Crowd of Over 16,000 Overflows onto the Field.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

THERE was a long, gasoline-consuming parade of great horsepower, and the camera men competed among themselves in what looked to be field events, after which the remainder of the dayling day was devoted to baseball between the Angels and Tigers.

The game itself was the closing ceremony in opening the 1916 season, which according to a perfectly good Waterbury watch, officially started at 2:45 o'clock, or just fifteen minutes behind schedule. But the start itself was the only slow thing of the game, it being a scrappy, ferocious, rip-snorting combat, with the Los Angeles club doing most of the ripping.

The Tigers were ineffectually ferocious, the fans attended to the snoring and Red Held supplied whatever scrappy features there might otherwise have been lacking.

RAH FOR RED.

Just to show that he fears no man who walks and breathes, Red impressively ordered Frank Chance from the coaching line in the seventh. This is the first opportunity that Held ever had to tie the can to a Peoria Lead-er, and he was not slow to take advantage of it and get his name in the newspapers.

The firing of Chance was really the climax of the game, and left nothing to be desired from the standpoint of the well-nigh 17,000 ladies and gents who had stormed their way through the Washington-street portcullis. Thousands who never had the money to go East and see Chance "canned," left the park satisfied with the city's growth and prospects. They never had expected to have any of this big league stuff served right here in their own door yards, so to speak.

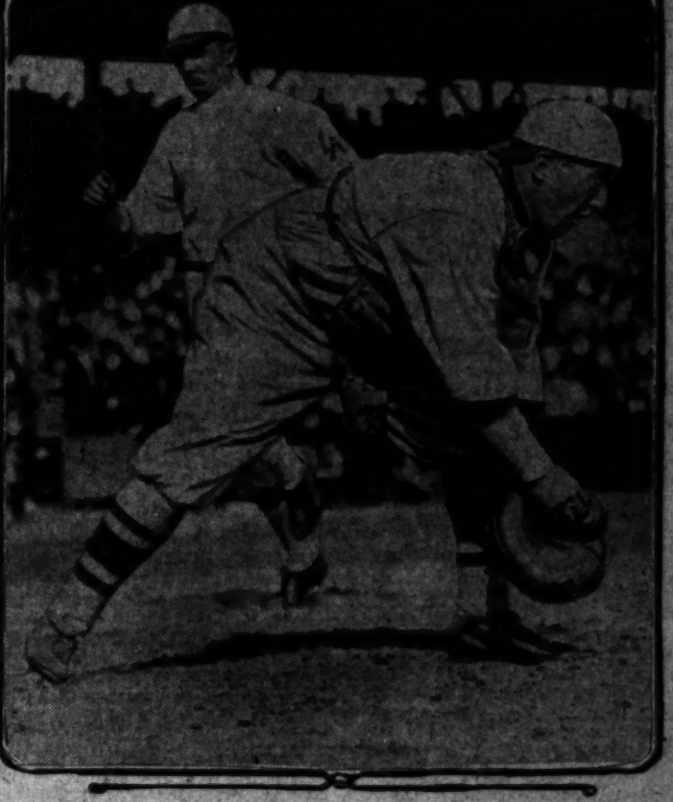

ANGELS WIN.

In a game filled with hits, errors and thrills at intervals of about three minutes each, Los Angeles won, 5 to 2. That comes under the head of a decisive victory.

The Angels outthrew the Tigers three to one, or nine blows to three, and did not field any worse. There were two technical errors by each side, and a number of plays which have no place in the book, and therefore cannot be classified. Both clubs were obviously overanxious, few of the athletes ever having personally met any of the 16,212 paid patrons present. The result was poor baseball from a scientific standpoint, but baseball that was sufficiently spectacular to make the fans break out all over with goose pimples.

SOME OTHERS.

In addition to the 16,212 paid admissions, there probably were 500 who came in on passes which they either owned or borrowed for the great occasion. All this meant a lot of goose pimples. Nobody took time to count the goose pimples, but these probably average about 5000 per fan, making a total of not less than 85,000,000, which probably is more goose pimples than

The first game of the season. Above, a part of the 16,000 crowd. The lower photograph shows Polly McLarry of the Angels, scoring the first run after making the first hit. The central picture shows Ray Bates of Vernon sliding home with the tying run in the fourth inning. Catcher Boles of the Angels is about to take the throw. Umpire Held is fixing his eagle eye on the plate and Marty McGaffigan is proceeding to have a fit in the offing.

UNTERMYER'S DEADLY SHOTS DEFEAT MIDWICK.

Los Angeles Players Make Game Spurt After a Poor Start and Take the Lead in the Sixth Period Only to Lose it in the Eighth to Coronados—Neustadt Plays Nice Game.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, April 4.—Hats were off this afternoon to Alvin Untermyer, the "youngest" player in the polo match between Midwick and Coronado. Untermyer, who is doing his first season at polo this year, is one of Hugh Drury's proteges, and the master has developed a most remarkable pupil. Untermyer scored four times for the Coronado team, and Readington, the captain, frankly credited the victory to his good work. Coronado won 8 to 6.

SPECTACULAR.

It was easily the most spectacular and best played match of the tournament to date, so far as interest to the spectators went. All the players were superbly mounted, and the racing and the team work kept the crowd stirred to the highest pitch of enthusiasm.

Distillate Trucks Are Pacific Coast Trucks

The Moreland is the only motor truck ever produced that operates successfully on distillate. If it were possible to secure distillate in the East, the Moreland would be the most widely used truck in America. Pacific Coast Truck users do not know how fortunate they are that the only practical distillate truck in the World is made right here on this coast. It is also standard construction, throughout, and equipped with Timken-David Brown Worm Drive. Fuel cost is one of the biggest considerations in the problem of modern hauling.

Earl Cooper Crashes Into Tree at Corona. Is Unhurt but Car Is Wrecked

COOPER DEFIES LURKING DEATH.

Remains Uninjured in Demolished Racer.

Front Wheel Lost While Traveling at Awful Speed.

Stuts Engine to be Placed in a New Chassis.

BY AL G. WARDWELL.

Death hovered over the famous Corona racer yesterday.

Earl Cooper, the 1915 road race champion, with his mechanical crew, Dave Dutton of Los Angeles, chased the Grim Reaper out of his tribute by a narrow margin.

CHEATING DEATH.

All that saved the two passengers of the stut car was the quick thinking and clever handling of the driver, Earl Cooper.

Traveling at the rate of 100 miles per hour, Earl lost his left front wheel.

As the wire wheel flew from the axle, the diminutive pilot battled with the steering wheel and the crippled car crashed into the inside curb.

Striking a telephone pole, the stut car then rolled back onto the street without overturning.

Both the driver and his mechanic remained in their seats and escaped without a bruise.

The car is a total wreck but the motor is unharmed. Cooper announced after the accident that he would take the fast motor from his new No. 1 and put it in the chassis of the No. 2 stut and drive in the Corona race.

WHEEL TRAVEL.

After clearing the car, the flying front wheel of the fast stut hit a palm tree high on the trunk, bounded back into the air and fell for two blocks down the highway.

It was one of the most remarkable escapes from injury and possible death ever recorded in racing history.

Cooper's escape in remaining in the stut after the narrow escape from death has added greatly to his already great popularity in Corona.

SPEED WORK.

Bob Dutton on the French Peugeot set the fastest pace in practice yesterday. Dutton turned his fastest lap at 101 miles per hour.

Cooper made a lap at 86.7 miles per hour just before he went into the curb. Joe Cannon on the big Mercer did 97.7 miles per hour.

Edna O'Donnell on the Duesenberg did ninety-six miles an hour and showed ninety-three miles on the Omer.

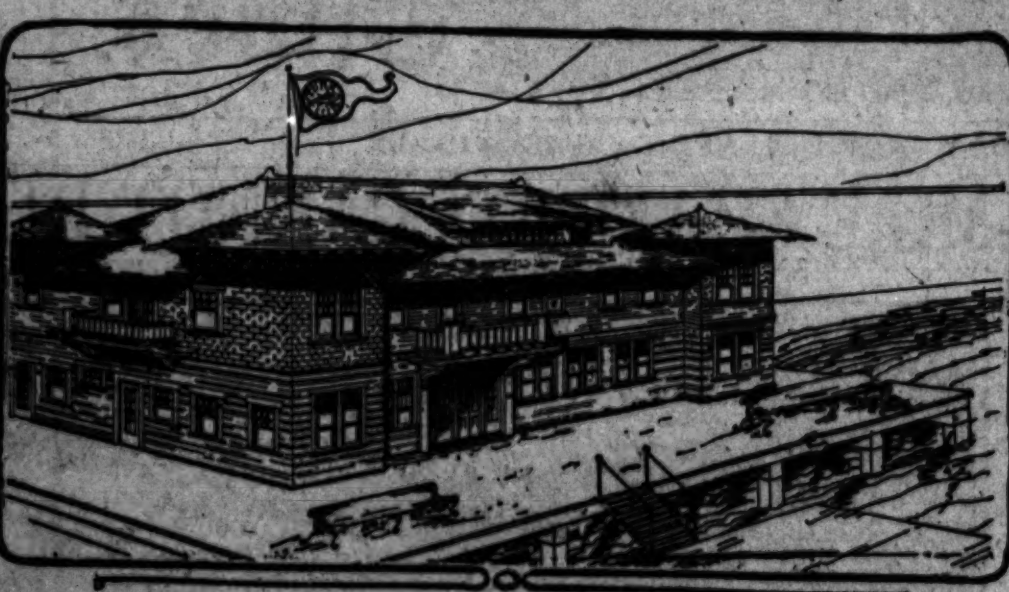

Omer Toff, who was nominated to drive the Omer by E. A. McKee, the entrant, did not appear in the course, although he was in Corona.

Barnes Oldfield did not show up for practice but is to be out today with the DeSage.

STEVE DALTON IS VICTOR AT VERNON.

Some exciting fights were staged up to the boxing fans at the Vernon Club last night. Two knockouts, three decisions and a draw were the main features of the evening.

Steve Dalton gained a four-round decision over Louie Ross after an interesting scrap and an exciting win-up.

Catalina Tuna Club's new home.

Which will be started in the very near future and will be ready for use by the opening of the summer fishing season. The building will cost about $12,000 and the furnishings and equipment will raise the total to $25,000.

Oh, Very Much.

OJAI TENNIS TOURNAMENT EXCITES LOCAL ATHLETES.

McLoughlin and Bundy Practicing Every Available Minute for Coming Meet—Many Other Racquet Cracks Plan to Cop Honors in Big Event—Great Enthusiasm for Some Sort of City Tennis Club.

THE Ojai tennis tournament, which is to commence on April 13 at Northhoff, has started all of the southern players. The tennis bug has become an epidemic. It is doubtful if the court stars of the south ever showed as much enthusiasm all at one time or if so many really got in and practiced every minute.

This tennis excitement first showed itself last Saturday when twenty of the south's most famous players spent the entire afternoon at the Los Angeles Country Club playing just for the fun of the game. The idea now is to have these meets frequently.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Maurice McLoughlin and Tom Bundy are practicing at every available opportunity and hope to make the Ojai tournament the first step in their campaign to regain the singles and doubles championships.

Ward Dawson, just back from the Orient, is playing vigorously and will participate in the all-comers event. Hardly a day passes that Dawson does not present McLoughlin with a racket to be reusing.

SLAPPING.

Shinabugh and Nat Brown have about decided to go north. Wayne Dutton, Broden, Donnelly and Mac are on the verge of slipping.

Florence Sutton will participate with Mrs. Bruce in special matches. Mrs. May Sutton Bundy has set definite goals to go to Northhoff, but there is every likelihood that she will.

Very Auspicious.

LONG BEACH ROQUE CLUB ENJOYS SPEEDY OPENING.

AN AUSPICIOUS commencement of the initial tournament of the Long Beach Roque Club, on the new courts erected jointly by the club and the city of Long Beach, was held yesterday, eight games being completed and three partly played up to adjournment at 5 o'clock.

F. C. Turner and J. E. Van Durne led in the respective divisions, the former with three games to his credit and the latter with two.

Van Durne of Pasadena was transferred from the first division, in which he had been placed by the committee on Monday, and placed among the second-division men—a position which seems to give him a map for the leading medal for that group, according to the expressed opinions of many observers.

THIS LINE-UP.

With the entry list open until 5 o'clock this morning for possible additions, the players aligned as follows: Division I—F. C. Spalding, F. C. Turner, G. P. Wheaton, J. W. Latham, Pasadena; H. E. Ware, F. C. Foote, Job Barnett, Long Beach.

Division II—Dr. Paul Burmaster, Chicago; Frank Goss, C. N. Barnes, Mr. Heiliger, Edgar W. Downing, Mr. Grimes, Long Beach; J. E. Van Durne, Pasadena.

The tournament committee departed from the usual method of matching players on the round-robin system, losers against winners, in order to accommodate the Pasadena players, who are allowed the stage of the tournament to complete their games in two days if possible.

RESULTS.

Six games finished in the first division resulted in wins by Turner over Wheaton by 32 points to 6; Latham over Foote, 22-18; Wheaton over Barnett, 22-6; Turner over Ware, 22-18; Latham over Foote, 22-22.

TUNA CLUB WILL HAVE A FINE NEW CLUBHOUSE.

CATALINA fishing enthusiasts will have the pleasure this year of swapping yarns around the fire in the brand-new clubhouse of the Tuna Club. The old house, which had been the scene of many wild fishing discussions and arguments, burned to the ground a few months ago. It was feared for a while that the institution would not be started again in time for the 1916 fishing season, but plans have worked out better than expected and the new home of the tuna cracks will be in running order by early summer.

The island fire destroyed practically everything of the club's except its spirit. A few medals, cups, books and photos were saved. Also one tuna fish, two swordfish, Dr. Holder's photo and one chair were rescued from the ruins. But aside from this everything went up in smoke.

A little over $2000 insurance was collected, over $2000 was already in the treasury, and a circular letter brought in about $200 more. So at the present time the club has something like $7000 with which to begin work.

Plans have been drawn up which call for an outlay of over $15,000. The building proper is to cost $12,000, and the furnishings and equipment will take about $3,000 additional. When the club is finished it will be one of the finest in the country.

On the roof of the new building provision has been made for the installation of a new set of instruments for the United States Weather Department. The second floor will have fourteen sleeping-rooms, bath and other accommodations. The ground floor will have office, fishing-tackle room, smoking-room, cardroom, reception hall, library and clubroom. A ground lease to occupy 100 feet frontage has already been arranged.

At a meeting of the Tuna Club last Saturday J. A. Cox was elected president, W. C. Griffith of San Francisco, vice-president, and G. A. Manning, secretary and treasurer. The directors chosen were Judge John M. Torke and W. C. Brode.

The coming season looks like a race-club. With a new building, new equipment and an enthusiastic list of members the summer fishing events should go off with a bang louder than ever before.

Now On Display in this City

This war has proved to motor truck makers and users what happens to a truck when it is driven hard in unsparring service.

It is estimated on good authority that sixty-three per cent of all shipments hauled from factory to train—to boat—or across the city are subjected to some unforeseen cost by congestion of the streets, or by inefficiency or actual breakdown of equipment.

Men in all lines of business are hunting better and more economical transport.

Never before in the history of American business has there been a greater demand for a dependable and economical motor truck.

This condition, many leading business men are finding, is met by A. L. Riker with his latest achievement, the Riker Truck—a war tested truck, a truck developed from the lessons of the war, made by the Locomobile Company of America—unquestionably and incontestably the best built truck in America.

These men found a chrome nickel steel frame in the Riker Truck, instead of structural steel as used in the frames of most trucks. Chrome nickel steel costs about 20 cents a pound—structural steel 8 cents a pound.

Instead of an aluminum engine bed, they found an engine bed of Government Specification bronze—the only engine bed of bronze ever put in a truck in the Riker Truck.

They found springs of silico manganese steel—the best made here or abroad.

They found transmission gears, propeller shaft, driving axle, of chrome nickel steel. Mr. Riker could have used high grade alloy or even selected steel, but the severe usage of these parts demanded chrome nickel steel.

The Riker Truck is designed to stand the unexpected strains imposed on a truck by business conditions—strains that may be expected to increase as business progresses and the problem of transporting goods becomes more acute.

The lesson of the war is plain—open to all—the truck that holds up in war service is the truck that can be depended on for the unforeseen demands of business traffic.

The Riker Truck, a war-tested truck, designed by A. L. Riker, largely from lessons of the war and made by the Locomobile Company of America—is now on display at our Branch House in this city.

SHAFTS FROM SHOWLAND.

NEWS OF PLAYS, PICTURES AND THE PLAYERS.

By Grace Kingsley.

Marc Klaw, of the well-known firm of Klaw & Erlanger, theatrical managers and producers, is in the city, en route to Honolulu for a pleasure trip. Mr. Klaw predicts an improved theatrical year for next season and promises that the Mason Opera-house shall have many excellent attractions. He says that Los Angeles is considered an excellent town theatrically, but that the middle-western territory has been very bad during the past two years.

"But I cannot understand the apathy of the West concerning the European war," said Mr. Klaw. "The East is settling with it all the time, but you people out here seem very contented to go along in your usual way with hardly a thought of the tremendous conflict."

Going into Vaudeville.

Francis Ring, sister of Blanche and Julie Ring, is to go East shortly to accept a vaudeville engagement.

As in a Mirror.

Julie Ring, at the Orpheum, looks so much like her sister, Blanche, that they are being constantly mistaken for each other. All of which, came near causing a break between Miss Frances and her old friend, Victor Moore. When a pump, good-looking, brown-eyed gentleman bowed to Miss Julie on the street yesterday, the lady did not reply. But later meeting Miss Frances, he was amazed to have her accept his friendly manner, and the damage to his feelings was repaired when explanations were made.

Anged Unawares.

Joanna Jennings of La Scala Sextette, at the Pantages this week, is a singer of note. She is a California girl, with her home in San Francisco. Blanche Bates, the noted dramatic star, is her cousin.

Redeemed Glory.

E. Puccini, also a member of La Scala Sextette, is a cousin of the famous composer of the same name.

Good Little Frances.

Julie and Blanche Ring were much amused in Cleveland a few weeks ago, when both of them being on the same bill, a story was published that the sisters did not speak.

"Why, Blanche and I are the best pals in the world," declared Julie yesterday. "When we were youngsters, though, I think Blanche and I used to lead Frances around by the nose. She was the 'good little girl' of the family, and used to take our spoons for us, together with the blame of our mischief-making."

Males 'Em Up for Her.

George Whiting is writing a new act (which means principally songs, of course) for himself and Miss Burt for next season. No wonder the girls swoon, which just suits her. Whiting's personality, when friend husband can write them for her.

Pockets Venus.

Lola Gilris, dancing with Ivan Bankoff at the Orpheum this week, is only 18 years old, and but four feet high. She claims that the reason she is able to inject so much dramatic quality into her dancing, is because she is the daughter of a stage since she was 4 years of age.

Miss Gilris is working out Miss Gene's old and big idea, viz., the correlation of lecture and spoken drama, using the latter instead of pantomime.

"Of course, the spoken drama should be poetry," said Miss Gilris. "So that the transition into dancing and pantomime will not be incongruous. There are many things which it is impossible to say in one's artistry, to express in either pantomime or ballet."

Back to "Legit."

Mary Servon, when she completes her present Orpheum tour, is to accept a leading stock engagement in Columbus, O.

Out Among 'Em.

Oh, yes, Edmund Lowe attended the opening scene of the season at Washington Park yesterday. Edmund took nearly all the members of the "Miracle Man" company as his guests. And here's how Edmund got into the game free of charge. The ticket seller is a great admirer of the Morse leading man; the gate-keeper remarks that Lowe has it all over David Warfield and outpouts "Law" Stone, and declared that Lowe may enter the ball park free at any time as long as he stays out of motion pictures.

Mystery Note.

"How do you get into that silver gown?" Miss Dorothy Jordan at the Orpheum was asked.

"I don't. It gets outside of me," was her answer. As she couldn't have put it on with a shoe horn, so closely does it fit, the answer was quite informative. The gown is worth its weight as it is real silver, little seen on such cloth, all beaten by hand.

May go into "Upstart."

Miss Jordan has been offered a prima donna's part at the Orpheum of her Orpheum tour, with Max Rabino's opera company. She has been asked to sing in "Tosca" and "La Boheme," and may accept.

Hello, Emil.

Emil Roe is now a member of Balboa. He has appeared in some of the most notable eastern photography productions.

Sub Note.

Here's a bit of De Wolf Hopper's drama, written while the lion picture "Sunshine Dad," was being made:

"February 10—Director Dillon says he will have a little surprise for me tomorrow. Must remind Mrs. Hopper to buy some arnica."

February 11—Asked Dillon what the surprise is. He asked me to wait until he can tell Miss Timmer and myself together. He wants to hear us both laugh at once. Renewed my accident insurance today.

February 12—Dillon wanted to know if I had made my will. Too busy to tell what the surprise is.

February 13—Dillon broke the news. Pay and I have got to run all over a set with a lion after us. I don't believe it can be a real lion. Dillon is a kiddo.

February 14—It is a real lion. I saw it.

February 15—The lion roared. Am not going to visit it any more.

February 16—Had a day off and spent it with my wife and child. One never knows.

February 17—First lion scene set for tomorrow. I wish I were not so plump.

February 18—Lion scene postponed.

poned. Lion savash. I wish his trainers would be nice to him."

"March 1—Dillon turned the lion loose after Fay and me. Told us to keep ahead of him and register fright. We did."

"March 5—Dillon says my acting was wonderful. He doesn't know the difference between acting and acting."

Biograph Fiddlers.

J. Farrell Macdonald, feature director of the Biograph, is now making "The Burning," the last picture that the company will make in Los Angeles this year. Vera Elston is playing the lead. Mr. Macdonald has had many offers for the time being his engagement with the Biograph company ends, but he has not announced his future plans yet.

"King for a Minute."

No expense is being spared to make an exceptional production of "King for a Minute," a film comedy being directed by William Bowman at Universal City. Carter de Haven is featured, with Marvel Spencer playing opposite him.

Popular Film Idol.

The fame of Sanford Quest, the criminologist in the Universal serial, "The Black Box," appears to have spread all over the world, judging from the number of letters still received by Quest, who played the role of a U. City, who played the role.

An admirer in Madrid, Spain, wrote a letter addressed to "Sanford Quest, Protagonista de Criminales," on the picture "El Cofre de Negro," the Transatlantic Film Company, Nueva York.

The letter, read by Raymond at Universal City, and contained a request for his photograph with his autograph. His Honor the Mayor at once complied with the request of the fair sex.

Costly Film Finished.

The big million-dollar Annette Kellerman production, which was staged in the West Indies for the Fox company by Director Herbert Brenon, has been completed, and will probably be released about June 1. The title of the picture is "The Daughter of the Gods."

Could Act, B'Gosh.

Carter de Haven of the Universal, who went to the Veterans Home at Seattle a few days ago to make some scenes in which a number of the old soldiers participated, tells how one of the veterans came to him and said, "You young fellow, what chance has a man like me in the movies?"

"Have you ever been an actor?" inquired De Haven.

"Sure, I have," answered the old soldier, "and what's more, I put on 'Romeo and Juliet' once, and nobody laughed!"

Minut Phenomenon.

Leonard Giffie, the 9-year-old Alhambra boy who received letters from Secretary of the Navy Daniels and from Inventor Thomas Edison commending a drawing he made of a device to prevent destruction of ships by mines, was filmed at Universal City a few days ago, together with a copy of the drawing, for the Universal Animated Weekly.

Signal Scores.

The Signal Film Corporation this week completed the screen rights to her novel, "Judith of the Camberlands." Helen Holmes is to be cast for the title role. J. P. McGowan will direct.

THEATER REVIEWS.

Pantages.

The refreshingly sweet notes of a golden-throated little canary bird dominate this week's musical bill at Pantages. The little songster accompanied by the violin soloists of his trainer, Master Paul, with trills and runs of his own devising.

He also imitates the calls of other song birds on the prompting of his master. The Myrtle Bird recalls tales of like creatures in the Thousand and One Nights and is one of the most delightful and novel musical (the description, serves in this case) acts heard in Los Angeles for some long time.

"Who's Who and Which." Yates and Wheeler call their act, and the answer must be "Neither and Both." It is a female-impersonation act where each sing at the Julian Eltinge stunt, and either way the audience screams.

And the slim boy is some nifty dancer.

"The Dairy Maids" is a plotless musical comedy of the usual vaudeville type, inexcusable except for the pretty girls.

La Scala sextette of opera singers include selections from "Carmen," "Rigoletto" and other musical works in their turn.

Wright and Davis, "The Love Insurance Agent," amuse with their comedy patter: Angelo Armita and his two brothers are whirling lumbars who lead off the show.

Besides the fifth installment of "The Iron Claw," a movie reel of the Bulck's trip through the sponge forests and snow of Bear Valley added to the cinema section of the programme.

Palace.

Fannie Ward, the attractive Lady Lugene, is gracing the screen this week at the Palace in a dramatic story of the great outdoors. Taken from the stage play of the same name, it is a tale of the life of the forty-niners when red blood counted for more than gold coins, and the law of the survival of the fittest was rigidly enforced.

In "The Cheat" and "For the Defense" Miss Ward takes the part of a daughter of the city; in this production her role is that of one of nature's children, for all the big scenes have been taken in the open.

Miller's.

"Blue Blood and Red," the first western comedy drama made by the William Fox company, is now being shown at Miller's Theater. It was produced here under the direction of R. A. Walsh, whose "Carmen," "Secrets" and "Regeneration" made him famous as a director of original ideas, and his latest effort is a series of thrills, laughs and action. George Walsh is the handsome hero from the East, who meets with many adventures during his sojourn in the West, accompanied by his faithful valet, "Doris" Paxon, a charming heroine, while Jim Marcus and Alkali lead the company of fun-makers.

LOCAL GOLFERS TO TANGLE SOON

Del Monte Golf Plan will be Adopted.

Four Trophies to be Awarded in Each Flight.

E. S. Armstrong Holds Highest Record of All.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The Del Monte golf plan will govern the Southern California championship meeting at the Los Angeles Country Club, beginning next Wednesday, April 12. That is to say, all flights after the championship flight of thirty-two, will be played on handicap, and the outlay flight idea, which left so many star players frozen out after the second day in the Midwick invitation tournament, will not be emulated. If a scratch man, who fails to qualify up to standard can win the second or third flight against a handicap man, it will be held no disgrace.

FOUR TROPHIES.

There will be as many flights as there are entries to fill them and four trophies will be awarded in each flight, winner, runner up, and winner of consolation.

The event is open to any member of a club in the association, and players of note may be specially invited to compete by the President, Edward Turin. To this end invitations have been sent to Jack Neville, Harry E. K. Davis, Robin Hayes, Grant and Charles E. Maude. The latter is visiting friends at Redlands just now and has accepted the invitation to the satisfaction of all concerned.

FAVORITES.

E. S. Armstrong holds the title. He has won three events this year already—San Gabriel, Santa Barbara and Virginia. Harold B. Lamb, his pet runner-up, has won the other two events—Altadena and Midwick. If Norman Macbeth can make the time to play through the tournament, he is another favorite for the laurels.

The Tournament Committee, which will be the court of appeals, consists of E. M. Wright of Annandale, Raymond Horby of Redlands, Edward B. Tufts of Los Angeles, Alexander Macdonald of Midwick and Dr. A. D. Cameron of Riverside.

An amiable entertainment committee has also been appointed, whose duty it will be to see that every individual competitor is made properly welcome. As this committee includes L. Mott, Charlie Van Loh, Robert Troesch, James Long and C. R. Noyes, it is likely to cover itself with glory.

THE COURSE.

And the Greens Committee has been at work on the course with diabolical intent. New bunkers and pits have been planted all over the place to irritate the nerves and the golfer's heart. The course has been man-tailored into evil, defined lines, with rough grass in symmetrical array to irritate the nerves and the golfer's heart. The course has been man-tailored into evil, defined lines, with rough grass in symmetrical array to irritate the nerves and the golfer's heart.

REDLANDS, April 4.—Fred Callis, one of the best-known swimmers on the Coast, is here for the week, having been brought here by the T.M.C.A. to teach the boys and girls of the city to swim and also to train the water polo team of the local association.

Callis has also organized a patrol of the United States Volunteer Life-Saving Corps here. He is the general superintendent of the volunteers on the Coast. Before he leaves he will hold an examination for those who desire to become members of the patrol, the boys being forced to render effective aid in all cases of threatened drowning.

STATE WATER MEET GETS POSTPONEMENT.

The State swimming meet, scheduled for Saturday evening, has been postponed until the last Saturday in April. Prep athletic officials are so opposed to the meet with matters pertaining to the State track event that the running of the water event was declared impossible.

Midwick stands at the proud place at the head of the scratch with 1000 per cent. unimpaired. Los Angeles is loath to them on their own ground, under such conditions, Midwick goes to Los Angeles on Saturday for the return match and Los Angeles will be covered in shame if it fails to Admission.

"Fighting Blood," with William Farnum, is a very satisfying picture, and splendid audiences are turning out for it. At the Alhambra this week, Mr. Farnum, in the role of Lam Hardy, fighting parson, is called upon to do some of his greatest acting, and he is the hero of two or three fights that are making film history. Especially realistic is the one where he whips the bully of a western mining camp, who has refused to allow him to preach. The story is a romantic one full of love and adventure.

Mr. Farnum is ably supported by winsome Dot Bernard, Willard Louis and a competent company of artists.

Now, however, Dillon is going to make the fight promoters raise their bids, at least so Dillon says.

No one thought very much of the Willard-Dillon affair, even at that time, and when the Moran managers came through it was forgotten entirely. Now, however, Dillon is going to make the fight promoters raise their bids, at least so Dillon says.

lick them on their home ground. Then if Midwick can also be relied upon to be licked by Point Loma, which seems within the bounds of probability, the two star teams will be all square for the final struggle.

The Virginia team goes to Altadena on Saturday—and Altadena confidently anticipates keeping its lead on the handicap proposition. Redlands goes to Altadena on the same day.

Appropos of these team matches and the keen competition among the lower teams, isn't there something rather reprehensible about certain little schemes of collusion that frequently take place? For instance, when a certain team played Midwick recently one heard the captain admonishing one of his men not to win a scratch match at the nineteenth hole, as he had arranged to concede the scratch on conditions he was conceded the handicap. This sounds positively feminine in its ingenuousness—but it isn't sporting. Or is it?

Boston and New York Clubs Furnish All the Winners in Second Round Matches—Payne Whitney Outplays Rhodes in Longest Match of Day.

(BY F. F. MOTT WIRE.)

NEW YORK, April 4.—Boston and New York clubs furnished the winners of the four matches in the second round of the national court tennis championship tournament here today.

Payne Whitney outplayed D. P. Rhodes in the third match of the day, the only contest to go for the full five sets. The cleverest exhibition of tennis, however, was that given by C. S. Cutting and W. H. T. Hunn, although the local man won in three straight sets.

Summary:

Second round: Charles E. Sands, New York, defeated George W. Wrightman, Boston, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2. Joshua Crane, Boston, defeated Lawrence Waterbury, New York, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4. Payne Whitney, New York, defeated D. P. Rhodes, Boston, 5-6, 6-2, 6-9, 5-7, 8-4. C. S. Cutting, New York, defeated W. H. T. Hunn, Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-0, 6-0.

Tomorrow, C. E. Sands plays Payne Whitney and Joshua Crane meets C. S. Cutting in the semi-final round.

SUNDAY—APRIL 16TH

This is the handsomest and most home-like residence, considering the small outlay, ever pictured and presented in popular magazine shape. Any architect and most any master carpenter can construct it without other directions than are in the magazine. Nothing is overlooked—the whole story is told by Jack Manley Rose and Grace Norton Rose, the famous architectural experts, who figure closely, but skip on nothing.

It has eight rooms, including two baths, a large living porch that can be glassed in, and six closets—without counting the cellar and attic rooms or the large butler's pantry.

The cover design, handsomely done in colors, shows the living room, seventeen by twenty-five, completely furnished. There are eleven guiding illustrations exclusive of the first and second floor plans drawn to scale.

Contractors and builders in various parts of America have estimated upon the cost of this ideal $5250 home and, contrary to many magazine-built houses, the stated cost is conservative and is not misleading. Here are the figures: Carpentry, $2940, masonry $1060, plumbing $700, painting $400, electric work $150.

It's an issue not only to read now and study, but to lay aside for future reference. Also in this issue:

Speaker of the House of Representatives, writes a vigorous article, THE AFTERMATH, in which he denounces the prophets of disasters threatening the United States after the great war is ended. Keeping It from the Public Article—By William R. Sill

Big salaries are paid a small army of publicity managers by the great play producers of the theater-world, not only to secure publicity, but to avoid it. Why and How? It's an interesting story, filled with startling reminiscences written to the point.

Among other features is a surprising account of the way in which many American towns, cities and geographical spots got their names—such as Portland, Or.; Bangor, Ounay, Wheeling, Hell Gate and Tombstone.

Ed Howe, the Atchison sage, is on hand with more of his inimitable Country Town Sayings; Frederick Hall writes merrily about Sunny Sides of Business; Madeline Bridges asks in rhyme and answers the question, What Does She Want with the Vote? And Phoebe Burbank, in the Food Department, has for housekeepers some new directions as to cereal combinations.

STEWARTS DEFEND UNION OIL POLICY.

FILE VOLUMINOUS ANSWER IN INJUNCTION SUIT.

Shield Holding Companies with Declaration that They Were Formed in Good Faith and in the Best Interest of Stockholders in Parent Concern.

A continuance yesterday, because of the funeral of Oles Kellogg, secretary of the Union Oil Company, set over until this morning, the big injunction suit brought by E. B. Blinn, John Garriques and others to determine the future control of the corporation. It is expected the suit will go to trial in Judge Meyer's court today.

The defendants, including the Stewart family, the Union Oil Company and the holding corporations, filed answers to the complaint. The answers are voluminous and go into great detail, correcting statements reflecting on the Stewart management of the corporation and denying in specific terms the many allegations set up in the complaint.

It was declared in the answers that the holding companies, the United Petroleum and the Union Provident, were formed for the best interests of the stockholders and in good faith. It was stated that their corporate existence has been maintained with the view of insuring stability in the business policy of the Union Oil Company.

So far as the things complained of are concerned, it is stated they have been of common knowledge and that practically all of the stockholders have acquiesced in and ratified them, having had full information as to the facts. The answer made by the Stewarts is a history of the Union Oil Company from the beginning and is given in justification of the formation and maintenance of the holding companies.

OUTS OFF BROTHER.
FORTUNE TO WIFE'S HEIRS.
The death of Mrs. Kate French Taylor in Ceylon, last year, raised William B. French from a humble employee of the Pacific Electric to a man of wealth. Mrs. Taylor left an estate of $400,000, half of which was bequeathed to William and half to Stephen French, another brother. William dropped his grease pail and brush and tried to adapt himself to the mode of a man of means and leisure.

A fly-crap into his inheritance, Stephen filed a petition, asking the Probate Court to appoint guardians of his brother's estate and person. He claimed he was incompetent to handle the fortune. William and his friends demonstrated that he could manage his own affairs, and the court agreed with him. The petition was denied.

William died March 23 last, but not before he had executed his will. He gave nothing to Stephen, but left his fortune to relatives of his wife, Ethel Adele Wood and Ella Lawrence Pitt, who reside in New Jersey. Justice Cassidy, who defended Mr. French's competency in the Probate Court, stated yesterday that the will has not been filed, but will be as soon as certain matters have been arranged. Whether the matter will be a contest over the property left by his client, he was not able to state.

EFFORTS FUTILE.
DECEASED ONLY COURSE.
Mrs. Frances Shinn Gelsler, blessed with a good singing voice and a pleasant face, ought to have been happy as a pig in a trough, but she was not, and brought suit for divorce against Fred Charles Gelsler. She charged desertion and showed yesterday that while she had offered to live with Mr. Gelsler after their previous divorce suits, which were denied, he had refused.

Her mother testified that for the sake of the baby, Mrs. Gelsler was willing to try life with Mr. Gelsler again, but he was unwilling to do so in the air. Mr. Gelsler was in the courtroom, but not as a contestant. He was called to the stand by Judge Wood, and testified it was no use trying, as he and his wife could not get along. He further added that "her folks never agreed with us."

Reaching the conclusion that the couple could not get along, the court granted a decree.

COMES TOO LATE.
TUNNEL DAMAGE SUIT.

On the ground that the statute of limitations had run, Judge Norton of San Luis Obispo county, sitting in extra sessions court yesterday, dismissed the suit of Eugenia B. Porter against the city of Los Angeles, to recover $111,000 damages to her property by reason of the alleged defective construction of the Hill-street tunnel. She claimed that her land settled and that the walls of the Stevens apartments she owns cracked.

The city, represented by Deputy City Attorney James Stephens and W. M. Bearman, put in a general denial, and in addition set up that the tunnel was a trespass, and therefore barred by sections 10 and 11 of the Civil Procedure. The tunnel was completed in July, 1913, and the suit brought in September, 1915.

Contractors Spicer and Watson were also made defendants. They were represented by Attorneys Ellis and Austin. The plaintiff's counsel were Morton and Abraham.

NOT AS ADVERTISED.
KNOT REMAINS TIED.

Because she did not know a soul in town, was lonesome and wanted some one to live with, Dr. Katherine Narance gave as the reason why she advertised for a husband. John N. Narance saw the advertisement, met the doctor, she subsequently called on him, and they were married. It was not a happy union, it appeared for Dr. Narance sued for divorce, which was denied. She brought a second suit which was partially heard last month and continued until yesterday, when Judge Wood denied her a decree.

He said he would be glad to relieve the unfortunate husband, but the evidence did not justify it. He found the charge of desertion was not sustained, the evidence appearing that the couple separated after quarrels for which both were to blame.

NEARING THE END.
MRS. BOURNE'S WISHES.

Friends of Mrs. Harry B. Bourne testified in her behalf in Judge Meyer's court yesterday. The evidence brought rapidly to a close the trial of the $5,000 suit of Mrs. Ralph Bourne, against the parents of her husband, Ralph Bourne, for alienating his affections. These friends said that the elder Mrs. Bourne was opposed to separations. Nothing of that kind had occurred among her people, they said, and it would not happen in her family if she could help it. This was in contradiction of the evidence of young Mrs. Bourne, that her husband's parents had interfered and induced Ralph to leave her.

The mother-in-law denied the charge of her daughter-in-law. She said that she was greatly disappointed when Ralph's wife did not return to her advances.

"I should like to have had her call me 'Mother,'" she said, "but I did not feel bitterly toward her because she did not do so."

The jury will probably receive the case some time today.

IN AND OUT.
ABOUT THE COURTS.

HIS BIRTHDAY. When Judge Taft arose yesterday morning and promulgated the weather for the day, he revealed that he had passed another milestone on the pathway of life. His birthday was again recalled to him in court, when Bailiff Gates brought in a bouquet of choice roses, with the compliments of R. R. Tanner, his former law partner. The roses graced the bench and symbolized the 43 years of the judge's life.

INCORPORATIONS. The Real Club, incorporated last week, has elected R. L. Rasmussen, F. S. S. A. Kerke and William Arendt.

Evidence Adduced to Show that Social Organizations are in Class of "Upstairs Saloons" or "One-man Resorts"—Case of Alleged False Affidavits is Continued.

Four social club liquor licenses were revoked by the Police Commission yesterday after an all-day session, in which evidence was presented to substantiate the charges that the clubs are in the class of "upstairs saloons" or "one-man organizations."

The clubs that lost their licenses are the Oil Country Club, the Swedish-American Club, the Pullman Club and the Rex Social Club and the German-American Club will appear before the commission next Tuesday. The application of John Chimes for a first-class restaurant liquor license for East Fourth street, over which the Greek community divided, was continued for two weeks. Citations were issued for several small restaurant owners to appear before the commission to answer charges of improper conduct.

MORE PETITIONS.
FOR CITY TELEPHONES.

Circulation of initiative petitions for a municipal telephone system will start today and the various organizations behind the movement propose to get 15,000 signatures in time to place the proposition on the ballots at the charter election June 6. The proposed measure is to be demanded by "An ordinance providing for acquiring or constructing a municipally-owned telephone system for the purpose of supplying the city with telephone service and communication. Bonds to the amount of $1,000,000 at 5 per cent. are proposed to be sold; these bonds to be a lien against the city."

George W. Graydon, secretary of the People's Telephone Association, said yesterday that the petitions will be circulated by 300 workers and the committee will open headquarters in a downtown building. The association proposed to place the proposition on the ballots at the next election.

A petition from the N. E. W. Commercial and Improvement Association, asking the Council to place the proposition on the ballots at the next election, was also filed.

The Council directed that the association be informed that the action was taken because the city is not in a position to vote more bonds.

FOR FIRE PROTECTION.
Steps towards providing fire fighting facilities for Gardena and Van Nuys districts were taken by the Council yesterday when the City Attorney was instructed to prepare a lease for a house which to keep the hand-drawn apparatus at Gardena, and informed the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce that provision will be made by the city for accepting the tract of ground offered at Van Nuys for a branch municipal building.

CITY HALL PICK-UPS.
IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

An ordinance placing liquor warehouses under jurisdiction of the Police Commission and imposing a license fee of $25 a month on such concerns was recommended by the Police Commission yesterday.

ministration, the natural result of failure coming because the law was applied under Democratic rule with corresponding Democratic incomes.

Back in 1912, Dr. Cole said, there is a show of prosperity, but it is due to nothing but the increase of business brought about through the European war. When the war started, he said, fully 80 per cent. of the workmen and mills were idle, and while they were working now, the men are employed in the manufacture of munitions of war for the belligerent European countries.

"What would happen to business under this administration if the war should suddenly cease?" he asked. "We would go back to the idle conditions that prevailed before the war. I want friends, that is a kind of prosperity that is not the kind that I want. I don't want a prosperity that is not clothed in the misery, ruin and sacrifice of the rest of the world. I want to see such governmental policies put into operation that will bring back the golden tide of prosperity not based upon the European conflict."

PLEDGES DISREGARDED.
Mr. Cole spoke of the many platform pledges made by the Democratic party and declared that not one of them had been kept. He said that a platform pledge is an inviolable, "and when a politician makes a platform pledge, he is bound to live up to it. It is as binding as a contract."

Mr. Wilson said "A platform pledge is a promise. It is a promise that is made to the people. It is a promise that is made to the people. It is a promise that is made to the people."

When President Wilson in his inaugural address said that the United States is too proud to fight he insulted every true American. This nation is not too proud to fight. It is too proud to fight for peace.

"When President Wilson in his inaugural address said that the United States is too proud to fight he insulted every true American. This nation is not too proud to fight. It is too proud to fight for peace."

"Suppose, my friends, some of you were abroad—and it is necessary for some of our people to be abroad at all times—and that your nation would not protect you. Suppose it would not stand for the rights of its citizens on land or sea, home or abroad, then that nation has no right of existence, because that is the beginning of national degradation. For the first time since the United States became a republic has anybody on foreign or domestic soil dared to insult the American flag. Down Mexico to-day if an American wraps about him the Stars and Stripes and defies the Mexican to shoot him, he is shot. For kind of a policy cannot endure. The American people will not rest under it."

A REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN.
The American people will not tolerate the violation of policies that have marked the present administration. It has settled no great international problem that has faced the administration.

tion during the past three years, and our American diplomacy is bankrupt. "We must have a change of government. We are going to win. Let's nominate an American and elect him President of the United States."

Francis V. Keeling, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, gave inside information upon the schemes employed by the so-called hyphenated "United-Republicans" in preparing their list of proposed delegates to Chicago. He had been notified of a conference, but when he went to attend it found that the state had been picked irrespective of the wishes of the people. He said that one of the leading "United-Republicans" wanted to use the slogan "United we stand, divided we fall," but some was said it would be better to adopt the slogan, "United we stand to divide all."

R. R. Hamilton of San Diego spoke against the "United-Republicans," saying: "The man who has to have an adjective to designate his kind of Republicanism is not a Republican. James F. Stutesman is a veteran Republican and gave an old-time Republican speech. He declared the Republican party is not a party of emergency and will not fall to bring our country from the chaos and crisis now existing."

FROM PARTY LEADERS.
Telegrams were read from a score or more national leaders of the Republican party by Dr. A. J. Scott, president of the Republican Club of Los Angeles. Each was greeted with cheers as read. Among those who wired regrets were former President Taft, Charles D. Johnson, chairman of the National Committee, and leaders in nearly all States. Following are some of the messages:

FROM EX-PRESIDENT TAFT.
New Haven, Conn., March 30, 1916.
Dr. A. J. Scott, President Republican Club of Los Angeles County.
I am sorry I cannot be with you at the banquet and reception to twenty-six candidates on the regular Republican ticket for delegates to the Chicago convention. I sincerely hope that the movement to elect them will be successful. The method taken by the State administration to defeat the will of the people in reference to a final primary ought to be defeated. I am sure that the people will elect a pseudo-Republican delegation to Chicago.

SUCCESS IN EIGHT.
Washington, March 30, 1916.
Dr. A. J. Scott, President Republican Club of Los Angeles County.
I greatly regret I cannot accept invitation to attend banquet to be given Republican Club of Los Angeles. Our party's prospects are such that we may anticipate a complete victory next November if harmony is maintained. I wish you and the Republicans of Los Angeles every success.

PARTY GAINING GROUND.
Washington, March 30, 1916.
Dr. A. J. Scott, President Republican Club of Los Angeles County.
I congratulate California Republicans on their success.

RESINOL DOES
HEAL SICK SKIN

When you know physicians have prescribed Resinol for over 20 years in the treatment of eczema and other itching, burning, unsightly skin eruptions, and have written thousands of reports saying: "It is my regular prescription for itching." Resinol has produced brilliant results. "The result it gave was marvelous in one of the worst cases of eczema," etc., etc., doesn't it make you feel that this is the treatment to rely on for your skin-trouble?

The moment Resinol Ointment touches itching skin, the itching usually stops and healing begins. With the aid of Resinol Soap, it almost always clears away every trace of eczema, ringworm, pimples, or other distressing eruption quickly, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Sold by all druggists. Just received invitation to attend the banquet to the twenty-six candidates of the regular Republican ticket for delegates to the Chicago convention. I cannot tell you how much I desire to accept the invitation, but the present condition of public business in Washington prevents my doing so. I wish you, however, a most enjoyable time and hope the Republicans of California will contribute their full share to the great victory which is in store for our party in November.

NEED SEASONED STATESMAN.
New York, March 30, 1916.
Dr. A. J. Scott, President Republican Club of Los Angeles County.

Very greatly appreciate invitation to attend reception to twenty-six candidates to the regular Republican ticket for delegates to Chicago convention, and regret that I cannot accept. We earnestly hope California will send a delegation of Republicans who will support a rational program in the interest of the nation of a worthy candidate. In a world crisis we need at the helm the ablest of our seasoned statesmen. Delegates from every section of the country should meet at Chicago with a single purpose, and that purpose should be to seek out a man who, if elected, could cope with the exigencies of the next four years. California should contribute her part toward convention which will first confer and then act as distinguished from a convention which would first act and then confer.
